ST RADDLERS OF DRY ISSUE MADE TARGET OF SALOON LEAGUE

Dry Organization Is Against "Wobblers" For Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The Anti-Saloon League of America has declared war upon politicians who straddle the wet and dry issue, thus joining the leading wet organizations in an effort to doom all "wobblers."

Announcement of this determination on the part of the Anti-Saloon League was made today by Superintendent F. Scott McBride, following the defection of at least two senators who had been regarded as nominally dry.

Agreeing that the present congressional campaign is drawing the line sharper on the prohibition issue, McBride said:

"We welcome the drawing of the line. It will get rid of the 'wobblers.'"

"The 'wobbler' is with a cause like our when he is not needed and he is against us every time he is needed. We welcome the elimination of that kind of representatives in congress. We like to have congressmen with convictions."

"Experience has shown that any man who weakens one way or the other on this issue suffers defeat. Neither the wets nor the dries want him."

McBride recalled that some house members defeated in the primaries had refused to take a definite stand either with the wets or the dries.

McBride declared that congress will be overwhelmingly dry even though the wets make gains in the November 4 election.

"Even if you grant every success the wets claim, there will still be ten more dries in the senate than when the eighteenth amendment was submitted and at least thirty more dries in the house," he asserted.

"Most of this near-rebellion against prohibition is confined to fifteen states which were wet before the amendment was adopted."

These he listed as Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Illinois, Missouri, California, Nevada, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Louisiana, and Montana.

It is in these states, he charged, that the wets are confining their campaign.

Referring again to wet claims of election gains McBride said:

"If the wets do make gains it will be for other reasons than prohibition. Should Bulkeley be elected in Ohio it will not be because of reaction against prohibition but because of the industrial situation."

COURT WILL DECIDE MOVIE TRUST CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The motion picture industry went before the supreme court today to defend its method of dealing with the 25,000 theater owners which the government claims is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

In one suit filed for oral argument, a lower federal court found the leading picture firms were violating the anti-trust law by coercive credit rules, and in another they were exonerated.

A victory for the government, according to statements of attorneys for the motion picture companies, would force a considerable revision in the credit and rental system which has been evolved under the guidance of Will H. Hays, the industry's "czar."

NEIGHBOR SAVES WOMAN FROM FIRE

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Quick action on the part of a neighbor had saved the life of Mrs. Mina Schopp, mother of five children, today.

Mrs. Schopp was severely burned on the body, arms and legs while she was starting a fire in an open grate at her home here.

Her clothing became ignited and she ran from her home screaming. M. Faulkner, a neighbor, heard the screams and extinguished the flames with his overcoat.

The woman was reported to be in a fair condition at a local hospital today.

GERMAN LINER FIRED ON; 26 OF CREW DEAD

Brazil Authorities Attempt To Clear Situation

HAMBURG, Oct. 27.—The German steamship Baden, fired on while leaving the port of Rio de Janeiro, had special permission from the harbor master to clear, according to a report of the incident wirelessly to the Hamburg American line today by the Baden's captain.

Previous reports from Rio de Janeiro had quoted Brazilian authorities as saying the Baden had failed to obtain permission before leaving the port. The captain reported twenty-six persons were killed and forty-three wounded when a shell from Fort Copacabana struck the liner.

The Brazilian authorities have promised a state burial for the victims and indemnity for the injured.

Officials of the line here branded as ridiculous reports from Rio de Janeiro that the Baden had been shelled because of its alleged failure to display a flag. Although the line stoutly maintained a flag must have been flown, it was pointed out the fortress could not have seen whether an emblem was displayed or not, as the vessel left the harbor in complete darkness.

KENTON YOUTH HELD IN DEATH

KENTON, O., Oct. 27.—James Willes, 21-year-old Kenton youth, and John Johnson, 34, were held by county authorities today for the murder of G. L. Ansley, 39, railroad shop foreman, who was fatally wounded at his home here yesterday.

Willes, it was alleged, did the shooting, while Johnson was accused of being an accessory to the crime.

Ansley, a brother of Morton Ansley, Hardin County sheriff, was shot during an argument, it was said, and died in a hospital a few hours later. Willes was wounded in the right leg.

Sheriff Ansley said Willes went to the dead man's home to see Lucille Ansley, a daughter. Ansley refused to allow the youth to see his daughter and Willes threatened to kill the members of the family. The girl had refused Willes' advances, the sheriff said.

Ansley's body was being prepared for burial at a local hospital today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Social and sporting worlds today mourned the passing of Harry Payne Whitney. The noted polo player, yachtsman and race horse owner died suddenly here last night at his Fifth Ave. residence. He had been ill with a cold since Tuesday and his death was attributed to pneumonia.

Oxygen was administered in an effort to prolong life but despite the heroic work of six physicians, he expired at 9:30 o'clock in the evening.

When the end came his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Payne Whitney, daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt; his son, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney; and two daughters, Mrs. G. MacCulloch Miller and Mrs. Parkie McKee Henry, were at his bedside.

As a member of the "big four," celebrated polo team which Whitney organized and led to victory in 1909, he brought to America from England the international polo cup.

At the death of his father, William Collins Whitney, in 1903, he inherited about $25,000,000 and his estate was estimated today as worth from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000.

REPORT PRESTES IS CONSIDERING COUP AGAINST REVOLTERS

President-Elect To Brazil Planning New Revolution

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 27.—Rumors reaching here from Montevideo, Uruguay today declared that Dr. Julio Prestes, who was chosen president of Brazil in the last election, is planning a counter-coup against the revolutionary regime which deposed the administration of Washington Luis.

The rumors could not be confirmed here. A strict censorship is still being exercised over all news emanating from Brazil.

Had it not been for the successful revolution, Dr. Prestes would have been inaugurated president on November 15, when Washington Luis' term of office legally expires.

Dr. Prestes' coup is being planned in the state of Sao Paulo which was the last to capitulate to the revolutionists, the rumors declared.

Dispatches from Rio Grande stated the revolutionaries were continuing to concentrate their forces in the states of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo for the purpose of backing up their plan to overthrow the provisional military junta now in control, whose leaders the insurrectionists regard as interlopers.

THREE NATIONS ARE JOINED IN TREATY EFFECTIVE MONDAY

Work Of Conference Praised On Radio Hook-Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—"Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed to develop."

President Hoover expressed this determination today to the peoples of three continents as he joined with Premier MacDonald of Great Britain, and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, in celebrating over an international radio hook-up the legal consummation of the London naval treaty, under which the great powers have severely limited their navies.

The final step necessary to put the London treaty into effect was taken in London this morning when the powers deposited their ratified copies with the British foreign office. Oddly enough, it took place on American "Navy Day," a day set apart in the United States for the glorification of the nation's sea power.

Both the British and Japanese premiers joined with Mr. Hoover in high praise of the London naval conference, and all expressed the hope that the fruits of that meeting may be widely extended.

"The new treaty," said the Japanese premier, "is bound to exercise an immense moral influence on the growing consciousness of mankind."

"One cannot but feel that the movement is favorable for a wide extension of the policy of disarmament embodied in this treaty. A momentous step forward on the road of international peace and friendship has been taken. Let it prove a prelude to still greater triumphs for that lofty cause."

President Hoover took cognizance in his remarks of the failure of France and Italy to become parties to the agreement, which is regarded as the principal weakness of the pact.

"France and Italy," he said, "are not as yet full partners in the London treaty. They have been making active efforts within the last few months to arrive at a complete understanding. The people of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and indeed the peoples of the whole world, have watched those efforts and confidently hope that patience and good will may yet lead to a solution."

The President declared that the London treaty is "fair to all and dangerous to none." It is an agreement, he said, that is "founded on common sense."

Premier Hamaguchi went a bit further than President Hoover in appealing for international peace.

Calling attention to the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war, he asserted that the whole world would rally against the nation that went to war in violation of that solemn pledge.

"Now that the pact of Paris is initiated by Mr. Briand and Mr. Kellogg has definitely outlawed war," he said, "it is clear that any breach of that solemn engagement must rally the whole world against the aggressor."

Premier MacDonald declared that ultimate failure of the theory of international disarmament "is unthinkable."

Whatever sacrifices Britain made at London in agreeing to parity with the United States he said were justified by the strengthened ties of friendship with the United States and Japan.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—James Hazen Hyde, New York capitalist, today announced his forthcoming marriage to the Countess Matuschka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Walker of Detroit.

GRADE CROSSING CRASH CAUSES DEATHS OF FOUR

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—An entire family of four persons dead and a 9-year-old girl believed dying was the toll today of a grade crossing crash in which a North Shore line electric car smashed into a passenger automobile.

The smashup killed Abraham Justas, 40; his wife, Mamie, 36; their daughters, Lenora, 15, and Rita, 18. Louise Selanger, 9, who was riding in the car, received injuries which may prove fatal, according to physicians. All were of South Milwaukee.

Traveling at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip, the Chicago bound train dragged wreckage and bodies for a quarter of a mile.

BUS OPERATORS ARE FAVORING FEDERAL CONTROL STATUTES

Will Ask Congress For Regulations At Next Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—While the short session of congress beginning December 1 will be largely devoted to appropriation bills, a heavy drive will be made for the passage of legislation providing for federal regulation and control of motor bus transportation, it was learned today.

The organized bus owners of the country want regulation as a protection against what they consider "the irresponsible and wildcat operators in this new field." They assert that the irresponsible bus operators do not want regulations of any kind, and are having a hard time growing extensively.

As a result of this situation there will be a concerted movement by the American Automobile Association, National Association of Motor Bus Operators, the senate and house committees dealing with interstate commerce, the interstate commerce commission, and state utility commissions to force legislation governing motor bus transportation.

At present there is no federal law on the subject. The interstate commerce commission is now undertaking an extensive survey into the relations between the railroads and buses and has scheduled hearings in various sections of the country during the winter.

The National Association of Motor Bus Operators recently concluded a study of the cost of operation of buses upon a per passenger basis. Detailed reports from 20 per cent of those engaged in common carrier service indicated that it cost only 1.1 cents per mile per seat to operate an average twenty-passenger bus and 92 cents per mile for the average thirty-passenger bus, making an average of approximately one cent per seat per mile for buses, far lower than the railroad rate.

No direct comparison was made with the cost of railroad passenger service, which is generally figured on a basis of 3.6 cents per mile.

Comparisons were given, however, for private operation of automobiles, which is figured at 1.50 cents per seat for each of the five seats of the average automobile. No consideration was given to the fact that frequently many of these seats, except that of the driver, are vacant.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—With the administration's policy toward the New Brazil a matter for future determination, state department officials today carefully watched the process of government building in that country as carried on by triumphant rebels. The task seemed to officials a difficult one.

The military junta which state department representatives in Brazil reported in charge was made up of men of known conservative tendencies. Most of them were staunch federalists under the former President Washington Luis until the upset in the old regime.

Aside from and in addition to this situation was the fact that no one group appeared in control of the whole country. Dispatches from the various Brazilian provinces told of different groups in charge of each one.

Whether these will all be able to compose what differences they find among themselves and arrive at one governmental system supporting one group of leaders remains a question which only the future can decide.

One encouraging sign was the nearly complete absence of conflict. Some provinces reported mobs raiding newspapers which supported the federal government, and a little promiscuous shooting.

HEROIC ATTEMPT TO SAVE BABY BROTHER IS BELIEVED FATAL

Ralph Chandler Has Fractured Skull Result Of Crash

Attempting to cross the highway and reach his baby brother whom he believed to be in danger, Ralph Chandler, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chandler, living on the Middle-Jeffersonville Pike, one mile east of Jamestown, was struck and perhaps fatally injured by an auto in front of his home at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The child was hit by an auto being driven east by Mrs. Lydia Smith, Washington, C. H. The front bumper struck the lad, pitching him forward. The machine passed entirely over the boy without the wheels touching him.

Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, took the injured child to his office where an examination disclosed he suffered a severe skull fracture and other injuries about the head. Afterward the physician took him to the Wickliffe Hotel at Jamestown, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Glover, uncle and aunt of the boy, and left him there. Little hope is held for the recovery of the child, who was rendered unconscious.

Ralph's one and one-half-year-old brother, Albert, was across the road from the Chandler residence. Ralph saw an unusual procession coming along the pike, a man leading an elephant, a camel and a donkey, the animals being chained together. The child, the parents said, has always been watchful of his small brother and noticed the strange sight and believing his brother to be in danger, he started across the road to him. He was almost across when the auto, which he failed to see approaching in the opposite direction, struck him.

It is believed the animals belonged to some small circus and were being led along the highway by a keeper.

POLITICIANS IN FINAL WEEK'S CAMPAIGN FOR VOTES IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—The final "big drive" for votes in Ohio's stirring political campaign was on today.

With only a week to go, Republican and Democratic state leaders concentrated their forces for a last state-wide appeal to the citizenry of Ohio.

More than 150 speeches have been planned for the G. O. P. campaigners in practically all of the Buckeye State's eighty-eight counties.

Scores of Democratic orators are also under assignment for addresses during the week.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper, seeking re-election, is to speak as follows: today, at Youngstown; Tuesday, at Kent and Akron; Wednesday, at Columbus; radio talk over Station WAIL at noon; Thursday, at Dayton; Friday, at Cleveland.

United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, desirous of retaining the senatorial toga, was scheduled to speak today at Ashland and Mansfield; Tuesday, at Fremont and Sandusky; Wednesday, at Marysville; over station WAIL, Columbus, at 7:45 p. m., and at Lancaster later that night; Thursday, at Delaware; Friday, at Toledo; Saturday, at Lakewood, Chardon and Painesville.

United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, is to deliver an address Tuesday night, over Stations WLW and WAIL, starting at 7:45 o'clock. Fess, also is to talk at Cleveland Friday.

Supporting the Democratic nominees, former Governor James M. Cox and Vice Donahay and former Congressman Martin L. Davey, who was the Democratic gubernatorial nominee two years ago, and former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene, will deliver a number of addresses this week.

Cox will speak at Cincinnati tonight where he will be the guest of Hamilton County Democrats at a dinner. His speech will be broadcast over Station WLW, starting at 9:30 o'clock. He will talk at Cincinnati, O., Oct. 27.—Due to the accidental discharge of a shotgun, Clara Jean Stewart, 14-months old, is dead today and her sister, Lenor Stewart, 17 years of age is suffering from powder burns and shock. The weapon was fired by Alexander Stewart, 15-year-old uncle of the victims.

Coroner Fred C. Swing exonerated Stewart. The coroner said he had dropped the gun accidentally.

The tragedy occurred Sunday at the home of the children's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Park A. Stewart.

Lenor, with her baby sister, in her arms, was in the act of leaving the house through the rear door as young Stewart returned home from shooting sparrows. As he turned to take out a remaining shell, the gun slipped from his hands, hit a rock and discharged.

The bullet tore away parts of the baby's head and face, causing instant death. The grandfather witnessed the tragedy.

OLDEST ENGINEER ON RIVER IS DEAD

GALLIPOLIS, O., Oct. 27.—The oldest Ohio River engineer in this section of the Ohio Valley, Captain Charles A. Dasher, 87, is dead today. His death occurred at Point Pleasant Sunday.

Forty years ago, Captain Dasher was on the famous packets Boston, Fleetwood and Telegraph, in the Cincinnati-Huntington-Gallipolis-Pomeroy trade.

"BUGS" MORAN AGAIN IS HELD; FAILS TO PRODUCE $30,000 BOND

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—George "Bugs" Moran, sole surviving chieftain of the once-powerful north side gang and bitter enemy of "Scarface" Al Capone, was in a cell again today.

For the second time in a week Moran was seized and arrested in his hideout at Mrs. Elizabeth Cassidy's resort at Bluff Lake, Ill., and hustled to Waukegan, Ill. Bonds were set at $30,000 on charges of vagrancy and conspiring to conceal Leo Mongoven, missing militant.

THREE NATIONS ARE JOINED IN TREATY EFFECTIVE MONDAY

Work Of Conference Praised On Radio Hook-Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—"Never again must a race in naval armaments be allowed to develop."

President Hoover expressed this determination today to the peoples of three continents as he joined with Premier MacDonald of Great Britain, and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan, in celebrating over an international radio hook-up the legal consummation of the London naval treaty, under which the great powers have severely limited their navies.

The final step necessary to put the London treaty into effect was taken in London this morning when the powers deposited their ratified copies with the British foreign office. Oddly enough, it took place on American "Navy Day," a day set apart in the United States for the glorification of the nation's sea power.

Both the British and Japanese premiers joined with Mr. Hoover in high praise of the London naval conference, and all expressed the hope that the fruits of that meeting may be widely extended.

The new treaty, said the Japanese premier, "is bound to exercise an immense moral influence on the growing consciousness of mankind."

"One cannot but feel that the movement is favorable for a wide extension of the policy of disarmament embodied in this treaty. A momentous step forward on the road of international peace and friendship has been taken. Let it prove a prelude to still greater triumphs for that lofty cause."

President Hoover took cognizance in his remarks of the failure of France and Italy to become parties to the agreement, which is regarded as the principal weakness of the pact.

"France and Italy," he said, "are not as yet full partners in the London treaty. They have been making active efforts within the last few months to arrive at a complete understanding. The people of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and indeed the peoples of the whole world, have watched those efforts and confidently hope that patience and good will may yet lead to a solution."

The President declared that the London treaty is "fair to all and dangerous to none." It is an agreement, he said, that is "founded on common sense."

Premier Hamaguchi went a bit further than President Hoover in appealing for international peace.

Calling attention to the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war, he asserted that the whole world would rally against the nation that went to war in violation of that solemn pledge.

"Now that the pact of Paris is initiated by Mr. Briand and Mr. Kellogg has definitely outlawed war," he said, "it is clear that any breach of that solemn engagement must rally the whole world against the aggressor."

Premier MacDonald declared that ultimate failure of the theory of international disarmament "is unthinkable."

Whatever sacrifices Britain made at London in agreeing to parity with the United States he said were justified by the strengthened ties of friendship with the United States and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Navy Day was celebrated today throughout the world wherever the navy has a ship or a shore station.

The program scheduled for the capital was a pretentious one. The light cruisers Marblehead and Raleigh were alongside the dock at the navy yard for inspection by the populace, and the dirigible Los Angeles was scheduled to pass over the city in review during the afternoon.

An aerial program has been arranged, featuring a simulated attack by air on the navy yard from the Anacostia nava air station.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—James Hazen Hyde, New York capitalist, today announced his forthcoming marriage to the Countess Matuschka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Walker of Detroit.

Hyde, former vice president of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., has lived in France for several years. The Countess Matuschka is Rome.

NEW YORKER TO WED AMERICAN COUNTESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Jack "Legs" Diamond, racketeer who was shot two weeks ago by gunmen in his hotel, continued to improve today. He will leave Metropolitan Hospital on Welfare Island within a week or ten days if his improvement continues, hospital officials said. No charge is pending against him.

A representative of District Attorney Cram said today there were no new developments in the investigation of the shooting of Diamond.

FIRE SWEEPS PLANT

NILES, O., Oct. 27.—Fire of unknown origin today swept through the plant of the Niles Corrugating Co., causing damage of $30,000. The fire delayed railroad traffic for more than three hours and cut off all electrical power in the city for two hours.

GRADE CROSSING CRASH CAUSES DEATHS OF FOUR

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 27.—An entire family of four persons dead and a 9-year-old girl believed dying was the toll today of a grade crossing crash in which a North Shore line electric car smashed into a passenger automobile.

The smashup killed Abraham Justas, 40; his wife, Mamie, 36; their daughters, Lenora, 15, and Rita, 18. Louise Selinger, 9, who was riding in the car, received injuries which may prove fatal, according to physicians. All were of South Milwaukee.

Traveling at a sixty-mile-an-hour clip, the Chicago bound train dragged wreckage and bodies for a quarter of a mile.

BUS OPERATORS ARE FAVORING FEDERAL CONTROL STATUTES

Will Ask Congress For Regulations At Next Session

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—While the short session of congress beginning December 1 will be largely devoted to appropriation bills, a heavy drive will be made for the passage of legislation providing for federal regulation and control of motor bus transportation, it was learned today.

The organized bus owners of the country want regulation as a protection against what they consider "the irresponsible and wildcat operators in this new field." They assert that the irresponsible bus operators do not want regulations of any kind, and are having a harmful effect upon an industry that has grown extensively.

As a result of this situation there will be a concerted movement by the American Automobile Association, National Association of Motor Bus Operators, the senate and house committees dealing with interstate commerce, the interstate commerce commission, and state utility commissions to force legislation governing motor bus transportation.

At present there is no federal law on the subject. The interstate commerce commission is now undertaking an extensive survey into the relations between the railroads and buses and has scheduled hearings in various sections of the country during the winter.

The National Association of Motor Bus Operators recently concluded a study of the cost of operation of buses upon a per passenger basis. Detailed reports from 20 per cent of those engaged in common carrier service indicated that it cost only 1.1 cents per mile per seat to operate an average twenty-passenger bus and 32 cents per mile for the average thirty-passenger bus, making an average of approximately one cent per seat per mile for buses, far lower than the railroad rate.

No direct comparison was made with the cost of railroad passenger service, which is generally figured on a basis of 3.6 cents per mile.

Comparisons were given, however, for private operation of automobiles, which is figured at 1.50 cents per seat for each of the five seats of the average automobile. No consideration was given to the fact that frequently many of these seats, except that of the driver, are vacant.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—With the administration's policy toward the New Brazil a matter for future determination, state department officials today carefully watched the process of government building in that country as carried on by triumphant rebels. The task seemed to officials a difficult one.

The final drive which brought the revolutionists into power was carried out by a totally different group from that headed by the defeated Presidential Candidate Getulio Vargas. The military junta which state department representatives in Brazil reported in charge was made up of men of known conservative tendencies. Most of them were staunch federalists und the former President Washington Luis until the upset in the old regime.

Aside from and in addition to this situation was the fact that no one group appeared in control of the whole country. Dispatches from the various Brazilian provinces told of different groups in charge of each one.

Whether these will all be able to compose what differences there are among themselves and arrive at one governmental system supporting one group of leaders remained a question which only the future can decide.

One encouraging sign was the nearly complete absence of conflict, some provinces reported mobs raiding newspapers which supported the federal government, and a little promiscuous shooting.

HEROIC ATTEMPT TO SAVE BABY BROTHER IS BELIEVED FATAL

Ralph Chandler H a s Fractured Skull Result Of Crash

Attempting to cross the highway and reach his baby brother whom he believed to be in danger, Ralph Chandler, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chandler, living on the Middle-Jeffersonville Pike, one mile east of Jamestown, was struck and perhaps fatally injured by an auto in front of his home at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The child was hit by an auto being driven east by Mrs. Lydia Smith, Washington C. H. The front bumper struck the lad, pitching him forward. The machine passed entirely over the boy without the wheels touching him.

Dr. R. L. Haines, Jamestown, took the injured child to his office where an examination disclosed he suffered a severe skull fracture and other injuries about the head. Afterward the physician took him to the Wickersham Hotel at Jamestown, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Glover, uncle and aunt of the boy, and left him there. Little hope is held for the recovery of the child, who was rendered unconscious.

Ralph's one and one-half-year-old brother, Albert, was across the road from the Chandler residence. Ralph saw an unusual procession coming along the pike, a man leading an elephant, a camel and a donkey, the animals being chained together. The child, the parents said, had always been watchful of his small brother and noticed the strange sight and believing his brother to be in danger, he started across the road to him. He was almost across when the auto, which he failed to see approaching in the opposite direction, struck him.

It is believed the animals belonged to some small circus and were being led along the highway by a keeper.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The present business depression with attendant unemployment problem is only temporary, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, famous German economist said today, and consequently should be combated with temporary relief measures.

Thus did Dr. Schacht give his endorsement to the plan being followed by Chicago and the rest of the United States in having the unemployed lend assistance to the employed.

State and city merged forces today in the campaign to bring relief to the jobless when the governor's commission on unemployment relief and the Chicago committee moved into common offices.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 27.—When Clara Bow lost $13,900 over the gambling tables of a Nevada resort recently, believing the markers totaled only $69.50 she was not the first motion picture celebrity to suffer at the hands of legal and illegal racketeers who operate in or on the film industry. The old adage about "more to be pitied than censured" has been rewritten in Hollywood to read "Motion picture people are more to be protected than pitied."
All of the more prominent screen actors and actresses have managers or lawyers to handle their commercial affairs. No small number of film players who have come up suddenly from obscure walks of life and have been easy marks for unscrupulous persons. Many others are employed in the studios from early morning until late at night and have little opportunity to study the innumerable "propositions" laid before them for investment.
Perhaps the oldest "racket" ever attempted in Hollywood was the plot to kidnap the world's most famous film star, Mary Pickford and hold her for ransom. A good part of the public believed the "Pickford kidnapping plot" was the idea of a nimble minded press agent, but Hollywood knew different. Although the greater portion of film players seek publicity Mary Pickford and her equally renowned husband, Douglas Fairbanks studiously avoid so-called "publicity stunts."
The Mary Pickford kidnapping conspiracy was an underworld plot. It failed because there is not, as popularly supposed, "honor among thieves." An underworld character known as "The Spider," informed police detectives of the scheme and for two weeks the conspirators were watched in a hotel and detectives listened in on their conversations.

No more diabolical kidnapping plot has ever been hatched. Three men were to disguise themselves as Shriners, there being a shrine convention in session in Los Angeles at that time; and follow Miss Pickford from the studio. Her automobile was to be crowded to the curb and if Douglas Fairbanks happened to be with her and interfered he and the chauffeur were to be killed.

Miss Pickford was to be taken to a house in the industrial district of Los Angeles and held there for a few days.
Meanwhile a letter was to be sent to Fairbanks, if still alive, instructing him where to leave $200,000 in ten and twenty dollar bills. If the ransom money was not forthcoming, Miss Pickford's doll-like beauty was to be married with acid.

A second rendezvous was in the hills back of Los Angeles and Miss Pickford was to be spirited to the second hiding place if the trail got too hot in the city.
Three men were arrested. They were C. S. Stevens, alleged "Master Mind" of the conspiracy and who had been a lieutenant in the Army air service during the war. The second was Claude A. "Fat" Holcomb, the third, Adrian A. "Billy" Woods.

It was revealed by the police that the men had planned, if the Pickford kidnapping was successful to kidnap Jackie Coogan, boy film star; Pola Negri, Polish film actress, and the young grandson of E. L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil magnate.
The three men were placed on trial and the wives of two of them appeared in court and told what good husbands they had been and how well they had provided for their families, but the judge felt that the evidence justified putting them away for a considerable period, both as punishment and as a warning that racketeers had better stay away from Hollywood. Stevens was sentenced to ten years in San Quentin prison, as was "Fat" Holcomb. Adrian Woods was acquitted.

"Two Years Since I Had a Headache"

Says Florence Sherman of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Calif.—"For years I suffered with splitting headaches," says Miss Florence Sherman of this city. "I tried everything for relief, but nothing did more than temporary good. Finally I went to my doctor. He attributed the cause to constipation, and prescribed Pluto Water—a small dose each morning diluted in hot water. That was two years ago. Since then, thanks to Pluto, I have never had a headache from this cause."

Pluto Water is more than a relief for constipation—although it is in that connection that it is best known. Pluto Water will relieve the most stubborn case in from thirty minutes to two hours; but, taken regularly each morning (a small quantity in hot or cold water) it will keep the system regular, help ward off many serious complaints. Try it today. Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Ind., and is sold at drug stores and fountains everywhere.

BANKER KIDNAPED; IS HELD FOR RANSOM

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 27.—Police were pushing a state-wide search today for Earl L. Yocum, millionaire banker who was kidnaped from his home here and is believed held for ransom. Armed posses have searched the western part of the state for thirty-six hours.

Authorities were convinced that Yocum was kidnaped for ransom purposes today after the missing banker's wife received a special delivery letter written in her husband's hand.

The letter, presumably written at the dictation of the kidnapers, informed Mrs. Yocum that her husband was being held for extortion. The note also said no harm had been done to the captive.

Fearing that the information might reach officers and place the life of her husband in further danger, Mrs. Yocum refused to ask the advice of her closest friends. She said she would decide today what action she would take. The banker's wife was in a state of collapse.

Yocum, who is president of the Yocum State Bank of Galva and a wealthy landowner, was last seen by his wife Saturday night when he stopped at the front entrance way of his home to give road directions to two strangers.

FIREMEN CALLED TWICE SUNDAY

Cyphers Ankeney Mill Road, at 7:25 p. m. The latter property is owned by Charles Strayer. Both fires were attributed by firemen to sparks from flues.

FALL FESTIVAL AT CHURCH IS SUCCESS

The large auditorium was created into a miniature fairgrounds with its brightly decorated booths where articles were on sale. Supper was served at the school Saturday evening. Large crowds attended the festival on both evenings.

HONEST DEAL WITH EVERY CRANK

Here's a device that will meet with the approval of the really serious bridge player, who begrudges the precious minutes spent in shuffling and dealing the pasteboards. It's an automatic shuffler, the invention of L. A. Lux of Cleveland, requiring about twenty seconds to shuffle and deal, whereas the hand method necessitates about two minutes.

Lux estimates it saves a half hour in every evening of bridge.

FAILURE OF SCHOOL LEVY WOULD CRIPPLE SCHOOLS IS CLAIMED

Possibility that the 1930-31 school year of the Xenia public school system would be reduced from nine months to six months, or that half of the present school teachers would be dropped from the payroll and the city schools lowered from a first grade to a second grade classification because of lack of funds is foreseen by school officials in the event of failure of voters to support the proposed renewal of the present three-mill tax levy at the November 4 election. School officials point out that the annual enrollment in the city schools has increased 28.3 per cent in the last sixteen years, that teacher's salaries now average $1,302 a year and that this average salary cannot be decreased.

Whereas in 1915 the city school enrollment figure was only 1,614, the registration has gradually increased until at present the enrollment totals 2,072, greater than in any preceding year in school history here.

The enrollment this year is distributed by buildings as follows: Central junior and senior high, 653; McKinley grade school, 505; East High School, 499; Spring Hill grade school, 269; Orient Hill grade school, seventy-six; Central first and second grades, seventy.

Enrollment figures to reach succeeding year since 1916 are as follows: 1916—1,614; 1917—1,769; 1918—1,732; 1919—1,746; 1920—1,796; 1921—1,810; 1922—1,860; 1923—1,975; 1924—1,821; 1925—1,780; 1926—1,821; 1927—1,898; 1928—1,967; 1929—1,973; 1930—2,072.

School officials and patrons are urging that proposed continuance of the existing three-mill levy for five more years be approved at the polls on election day in order that Xenia boys and girls will not be deprived of first class educational facilities.

Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has been named by President Hoover to organize, with the help of Cabinet members, Federal plans for national unemployment relief. ## EIGHTH WONDER!

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Despite all previous discoveries, the eighth wonder of the world was found today at Ohio State University here.

Students are demanding that they be allowed to study on Sundays!

They contend that they are unable to devote Saturday afternoons because of football games, and therefore they must do their week-end preparations on the Sabbath.

The student senate, at its regular meeting recently, demanded that the university's main library be open Sunday afternoons. A group of studious scholars trekked to the library a week ago and was enraged to find the library closed.

Earl N. Manchester, university librarian, said he had not opened the study halls because he thought no one would want to spend Sunday afternoon in a library during the prevailing ideal fall weather.

SLEEP WALKER IS KILLED BY FALL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—An affliction of sleep-walking cost the life of Mrs. Amelia Eitel, 67, of Columbus, today.

The woman died in a hospital here last night from a fractured skull which she suffered Saturday morning when she walked in her sleep and fell fifteen feet to the sidewalk from the porch roof of her home.

She was found unconscious a few minutes later by her husband, who said that the woman had been addicted to somnambulism since a year ago, when she suffered a paralytic stroke.

ARREST SUSPECT

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—One suspect was held by police today in connection with the daring hold-up and robbery of a restaurant in the heart of the business district here early Sunday morning. The lone masked bandit obtained $350 from the cash drawers.

BANKER KIDNAPED; IS HELD FOR RANSOM

GALVA, Ill., Oct. 27.—Police were pushing a state-wide search today for Earl L. Yocum, millionaire banker who was kidnaped from his home here and is believed held for ransom. Armed posses have searched the western part of the state for thirty-six hours.

Authorities were convinced that Yocum was kidnaped for ransom purposes today after the missing banker's wife received a special delivery letter written in her husband's hand.

The letter, presumably written at the dictation of the kidnapers, informed Mrs. Yocum that her husband was being held for extortion. The note also said no harm had been done to the captive.

Fearing that the information might reach officers and place the life of her husband in further danger, Mrs. Yocum refused to ask the advice of her closest friends. She said she would decide today what action she would take. The banker's wife was in a state of collapse.

Yocum, who is president of the Yocum State Bank of Galva and a wealthy landowner, was last seen by his wife Saturday night when he stopped at the front entrance way of his home to give road directions to two strangers.

FIREMEN CALLED TWICE SUNDAY

Two roof fires which caused small damage were extinguished by firemen with chemicals Sunday morning and night, bringing to eighty the total number of alarms to which the department has responded this year.

Damage placed at $15 resulted from a blaze at the home of George P. Henkel, 648 N. King St., at 11:17 a. m. and $2 damage was caused by a similar fire at the home of J. R. Cyphers Ankeney Mill Road, at 7:25 p. m. The latter property is owned by Charles Strayer. Both fires were attributed by firemen to sparks from flues.

FALL FESTIVAL AT CHURCH IS SUCCESS

Both from a financial and social standpoint the Fall Festival sponsored by women of the Altar Society of St. Brigid Church was a huge success it was revealed Monday. The affair was held Friday and Saturday evenings in the auditorium at the school and Mrs. James Graham was general chairman, assisted by a number of sub-committees.

The large auditorium was created by a miniature fairgrounds with its brightly decorated booths where articles were on sale. Supper was served at the school Saturday evening. Large crowds attended the festival on both evenings.

Market St., colored, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to thirty days in jail and was deprived of his driving privileges for six months on a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Monday morning.

Police arrested him later at his home and also took into custody Frank Thomas, colored, who was fined $10 and costs on an intoxication charge by Judge Smith Monday.

DISMISS CHARGE

An affidavit charging Floyd Moore, Cleveland, O., Wilberforce University student, with grand larceny, in connection with the alleged theft of $50 from H. C. Graves, head football coach at the university, from Graves' room during his absence last Thursday night, was dismissed by Judge Smith Monday when the student's mother arrived here from Cleveland, reimbursed Coach Graves and paid the costs of the case. Moore was released.

IS BOUND OVER

HONEST DEAL WITH EVERY CRANK

Here's a device that will meet with the approval of the really serious bridge player, who begrudges the precious minutes spent in shuffling and dealing the pasteboards. It's an automatic shuffler, the invention of L. A. Lux of Cleveland, requiring about twenty seconds to shuffle and deal, whereas the hand method necessitates about two minutes.

Lux estimates it saves a half hour in every evening of bridge.

FAILURE OF SCHOOL LEVY WOULD CRIPPLE SCHOOLS IS CLAIMED

Possibility that the 1930-31 school year of the Xenia public school system would be reduced from nine months to six months, or that half of the present school teachers would be dropped from the payroll and the city schools lowered from a first grade to a second grade classification because of lack of funds is foreseen by school officials in the event of failure of voters to support the proposed renewal of the present three-mill tax levy at the November 4 election.

School officials point out that the annual enrollment in the city schools has increased 28.3 percent in the last sixteen years, that teacher's salaries now average $1,302 a year and that this average salary cannot be decreased.

Whereas in 1916 the city school enrollment figure was only 1,614, the registration has gradually increased until at present the enrollment totals 2,072, greater than in any preceding year in school history here.

The enrollment this year is distributed by buildings as follows: Central Junior and senior high, 653; McKinley grade school, 505; East High School, 499; Spring Hill grade school, 269; Orient Hill grade school, seventy-six; Central first and second grades, seventy.

Enrollment figures to reach succeeding year since 1916 are as follows: 1916—1,614; 1917—1,769; 1918—1,732; 1919—1,746; 1920—1,796; 1921—1,810; 1922—1,860; 1923—1,975; 1924—1,821; 1925—1,780; 1926—1,821; 1927—1,898; 1928—1,967; 1929—1,973; 1930—2,072.

School officials and patrons are urging that proposed continuance of the existing three-mill levy for fire more years be approved at the polls on election day in order that Xenia boys and girls will not be deprived of first class educational facilities.

EIGHTH WONDER!

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Despite all previous discoveries, the eighth wonder of the world was found today at Ohio State University here.

Students are demanding that they be allowed to study on Sundays!

They contend that they are unable to devote Saturday afternoons because of football games, and therefore they must do their week-end preparations on the Sabbath.

The student senate, at its regular meeting recently, demanded that the university's main library be open Sunday afternoons. A group of studious scholars trekked to the library a week ago and was enraged to find the library closed.

Earl N. Manchester, university librarian, said he had not opened the study halls because he thought no one would want to spend Sunday afternoon in a library during the prevailing ideal fall weather.

SLEEP WALKER IS KILLED BY FALL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—An affliction of sleep-walking cost the life of Mrs. Amelia Eitel, 67, of Columbus, today.

The woman died in a hospital skull which she fractured Saturday morning when she walked in her sleep and fell fifteen feet to the sidewalk from the porch roof of her home.

She was found unconscious a few minutes later by her husband, who said that the woman had been addicted to somnambulism since a year ago, when she suffered a paralytic stroke.

ARREST SUSPECT

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—One suspect was held by police today in connection with the daring hold-up and robbery of a restaurant in the heart of the business district here early Sunday morning. The lone masked bandit obtained $350 from the cash drawers.

The suspect, Henry Scott, Negro, was a former employee of the restaurant.

SECOND CAVE-IN AT TUNNEL HURTS TWO

ADENA, O., Oct. 27.—A second cave-in at the Harrisville Tunnel near here, resulted today in the injury of two employees of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad. A similar accident caused the deaths of three miners last Thursday.

The cave-in occurred late yesterday, burying James Dennballe, assistant to the road master of the railroad, and Joseph Junnar, of Maynard, Jerry Sills, Louis Romato and Charles Duda, all of Dillonvale, were fatally injured in the first accident when tons of debris fell in on a freight train.

Dennballe and Junnar were buried yesterday when more than 100 tons of stone and earth landed while a crew of men was clearing away the debris of the first accident. All other members of the crew escaped. Then men are not believed to be seriously hurt.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FAITH UNITES WITH GOD—Jesus saith unto them, Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea, and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith.—Mark 11:22, 23.

MUCH ANNOYANCE

A questionnaire-survey conducted by a professor has discovered 21,000 annoyances. As a matter of fact there are as many sources of annoyance as there are human beings in the world, about 1,900,000,000, at the last count; while the number of specific acts of annoyance which the ingenuity of these individuals is capable of devising is astronomical. The professor picks out 507 of the most common ones and from a study of these arrives at certain interesting conclusions.

About 57 per cent of all common annoyances issue from the behavior or misbehavior of other people. Observations in certain sectors of urban life would place the figure higher. Capacity for annoyance is a manifestation of progress, we are told; but we doubt it, although such progress as the world is now making obviously increases the opportunities for annoying other people. Women, we read, are more easily annoyed than men. We have our doubts about that, too. Woman's greater capacity for being annoyed may be due to an appearance due to the fact that under male dominance her nerves are exposed to exacerbation more frequently than man's are.

Among the commonest annoyances to which both men and women are exposed in this civilized country, with the percentage assigned to each in the professor's survey, are coughing in (n's) face, 28.9 per cent; a mosquito for a bedmate, 26.3 per cent; a young person showing disrespect to a much older person, 25.6 per cent; a salesman attempting to force a buy, 22.9 per cent; acting as if one knew it all, 21.9 per cent; a dirty bed, 27.8 per cent; audible soup eating, 20.5 per cent; advice from the back seat, 20.8 per cent; songs and poems about mother, 4.5 per cent. The reader may add to the list from his or her own experience, ad libitum.

Annoyances that arise from the behavior of others are the products of thoughtlessness, a lack of good breeding, active or passive selfishness or articulate self-satisfaction. The man who knows it all is unquestionably the most annoying of God's mistakes, when his unconscious ignorance manifests itself volubly. The more closely people of different upbringings and outlooks upon life are associated with each other the more likely they are to annoy each other. Asserting his proprietorship by slapping his wife's face in a bridge game, turning on the radio when she wants to read and maintaining a hold on her arm on the street, as if she might runaway, are all little annoyances which the ill-bred husband is capable of administering to a gently bred wife. Corrugity, a raucous voice, a horse laugh, vulgarities of any kind, an excess of curiosity about another's personal affairs, a disinclination to give others half the road or sidewalk, all find a place on the list of preventable annoyances.

The way to rid life of these obstacles to agreeable association is to consult the feelings of others.

REPORTING ON PROHIBITION

Hopes are held out that the national law enforcement commission will be able to make a report on the relation of the prohibition situation to crime early in the next session of congress. The main job of this commission is to consider how our laws and judicial procedure can be so improved as to restrain the lawlessness that now disgraces the country. This is one of the most serious problems that our country ever faced.

The people are very much excited over prohibition, but they should not become so emotional about this question, that they divert this commission from its main task of considering the crime problem.

This commission can not settle the prohibition problem. People's minds are fairly well made up on that question, and they will not be very much swayed by any such investigation. The commission should throw light on this situation, but it would do well to get this side of its work out of the way, and then give its main attention to the big central problem of crime.

AN ODD STORY, AN ODD MAN

It's another man's story, but I'm going to write it, just the same. Lincoln Steffens told it to me about Jo Davidson, that famous American sculptor who looks like a gnome and works like a giant—who has gone all over this earth to make heads and busts of the strong men and the talented, of Mussolini and Anatole France and D. H. Lawrence and Rockefeller and Rodin, of babies and men and women and children.

Once Jo Davidson was poor and unknown and he wanted to get to Paris to study. He didn't have a dime, but he knew a rich man and the rich man lent Jo Davidson $500. That was enormous wealth to Davidson. It took him to Paris when he was nearly desperate. It got him his chance and he used that chance to get on his feet and show the world what his quick brain and keen eye and amazing fingers could do. . . . In a few years he was famous, able to charge fat fees to the rich and to the poor, when they interested him, just nothing at all.

One day, walking on the streets of Paris with Steffens, Davidson met his friend, the rich man who had lent him the $500. . . . Davidson stopped to talk to his benefactor, while Steffens went on. When Davidson caught up with Steffens he said the millionaire had asked when he intended to repay the money.

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him I couldn't do it," replied Davidson, "because I didn't have enough money and I never would have enough. The $500 he lent me was worth MILLIONS to me at that time and I'd never have millions. I couldn't pay it back to him, but I'd wait until I met someone who needed $500 as much as I needed it then and I'd lend the $500 or some part of it to that person and HE could lend it to someone else to whom it was worth a million dollars. And so, it would ALWAYS be a million dollars, while if I paid my friend his just debt it would merely be $500 again—or even less, because he had so much money it was hardly more important to him than 50 cents on a dollar."

"What did the rich man say to that?" asked Steffens.

"He laughed at me and said goodbye. I gathered that he thinks I'm a nut."

Well perhaps Jo Davidson IS a "nut," but if he is he's a wise sort of "nut," and his idea is a good one. He applies it to money, but the rest of us can apply to actions, to the favors we may receive from life. It wouldn't work very well in business, but it will work perfectly in friendship, in the common give-and-take existence of human beings. It's a device for returning to life a small portion of what we have received.

THE QUESTION BOX

—Central Press Wash. Bureau—

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

Who was Louisa M. Alcott?

Louisa May Alcott was an American writer born at Germantown, Pa., Nov. 29, 1832. She began her active life as a teacher, writing stories of humble sensation for weekly journals and publishing the insignificant "Flower Fables" in 1855. During the Civil war she volunteered as an army nurse and wrote for a newspaper the letters afterwards collected as "Hospital Sketches" in 1863. She first attracted notice with "Little Women" in 1868, which was the best and most popular of her writings, in which she drew herself as the character Jo. In later years she suffered much from ill health, but her writing was to the last singularly buoyant and hopeful, full of faith in human nature, democracy and freedom. She died at Boston, March 6, 1888.

Albinos

What is an albino? The term albino was first applied to the white negroes of West Africa by the Portuguese. It is now applied to any person in whom there is a congenital deficiency of pigment in the hair, skin, iris and choroid of the eye. The skin is abnormally pale, the hair is white or pale flaxen, and the iris is pink. Albinism is found in many races as a rare condition. It is sometimes a family trait. It occurs frequently among rabbits, mice, birds and other lower animals.

An Element

How is phosphorus made? Phosphorus is not made, it is an element, discovered by Brandt, a Hamburg alchemist, in 1669. It does not occur free in nature, but is found abundantly in the form of phosphates. It is obtained, however, largely from bone ash, which is treated with sulphuric acid. This sets free in solution the phosphoric acid while the calcium sulphate is precipitated out. The acid is then concentrated and heated and then mixed with sawdust or coke and strongly heated in clay retorts, the result being the liberation of the phosphorus as a vapor. This is condensed under water in vessels of lead.

Last of Line

What was the name and nationality of the king who lost Constantinople to the Turks in 1453?

Constantine XI, the last of the Byzantine emperors, lost the city of Constantinople to Mohammed II in 1453 after a long siege, during which Constantine appealed in vain for aid to the princes of Christendom. He lost his life in his defense. The city was the capital of the Eastern or Byzantine Empire, with the patriarch of Constantinople recognized as the head of the Christian church in the East. In the struggle between Latin and Greek Christianity Constantinople was naturally the great opponent of Rome. In 1204 it passed into the control of the Latins, but in 1261 the Greeks regained the city and kept it until its fall before the armies of Mohammed II.

Bo-Broadway

—By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE—

NEW YORK CITY, New York—The proprietor of a Sixth Ave. Nose Bag, in the heart of the employment-agency district, distressed at the sight of hundreds of jobless men milling in his neighborhood with their belt buckles jammed into the last notch, cut his prices to a point just a hair's-breadth this side of charity. He operates at a loss every day, and the duration of his benevolent depends on the size of his bankroll.

A long line of persons who have been haunting the agencies stand outside the restaurant waiting for seats about the round, neat counters. Busy waitresses, who have agreed with the proprietor to work without tips, efficiently serve the customers.

A sad feature of the experiment is that a few who can afford to pay higher prices and who have steady jobs, take advantage of the situation and usurp the places of those really in need.

Speaking of phony yarns: A recent story that gained wide circulation by the "grapevine" method dealt with the construction of one of the town's tallest buildings. According to the story—accepted as fact and in good faith rehearsed in this department—and structure is being rushed to completion at such speed that despite all zeal in safeguarding the workers, forty of them lost their lives.

An investigation discloses that the author of this unpeasantly false yarn must have been a pessimist, careless with his zeroes. As a matter of fact only four or five men were killed, a marvelous record in construction work of that magnitude.

Many a man falls from the truth while climbing toward it.

Ten Contests Out of Thirty-five In 1930 Battle for Senate Seats Are Over Wet-and-Dry Issue

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—Out of this fall's 35 senate contests—There are two in Kansas, Kentucky, New Jersey and Tennessee also have, each, a little additional squabble for very short term honors, but these three are not included in the total; they are only for December, January and February, which does not amount to much.

Anyway, out of this fall's 35 senate contests, 10 are, more or less noticeably, wet-and-dry fights.

STATES IN which the senate candidates on both sides are dry, such as West Virginia and most of the southern group; states in which both major parties have made wet nominations; states in which the wet-and-dry issue seems entirely submerged for the present—these do not count, of course.

Net results of the jousting for seats in the house of representatives means as much, in connection with the prohibition question, as the outcome of the senatorial campaign, to be sure—but representatives are too numerous to be reckoned except in job lots.

As for governorships—they have plenty of wet-and-dry significance, too. However, it is a significance which cannot be estimated so readily as conclusions can be drawn from the record of votes cast for members of the two branches of congress.

IN 10 STATES, then, the wet-and-dry issue is more or less clearly defined, senatorially.

It is defined with crystal clarity. In Illinois where ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis (D.) is unqualifiedly wet, while Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick (R.), whatever she may be now, indisputably was nominated as a dry in Ohio and Massachusetts, where two out-and-out dries, respectively Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch (R.) and ex-Senator William M. Butler (R.) are opposing Robert J. Bulkley (D.) and Marcus A. Coolidge (D.) equally out-and-out wets—in Delaware, where ex-Senator Thomas F. Bayard (D.) emphatically wet, is arrayed against Senator Daniel O. Hastings (R.), a dry, if silence, when he is referred to as one, gives consent.

These states are generally regarded as doubtful in November. Iowa is not; it goes G. O. P. nine times in ten. Nevertheless, prohibition is an issue there, as far as Senator Daniel F. Steuck (D.) can make it so, in his wet fight for reelection, versus Representative L. J. Dickinson (R.), a dry.

IN MINNESOTA the wets are making the most of Einar Hoidal (D.). He is not an ardent wet candidate, but at least he agrees to be wet if his state is wet. His opponents are Senator Thomas D. Schell (R.) and Ernest Lundeen (Farmer-Labor), both dries, besides C. A. Lund independent dry. Nebraska, in addition to being politically mighty lip-sided, rather Iowa appears wet-and-dry rather indifferent. Still, it reveals a line—ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock (D.), a wet against Senator George W. Norris (R.), if Uncle George may be so initiated), a dry, though he supported Al Smith.

Wandering politicians, just back from the west, describe Colorado as peculiar. Edward P. Costigan (D.) is a bone-dry and George H. Shaw (R.) was referred to during the primaries as a wet. Yet their affiliations are such that now the Costigan candidacy is men'ed as slightly the wetter and the Shaw candidacy as a trifle the dryer of the two, in so far as the question figures in the silver state campaign—which, it is said, is not much.

SO MUCH for eight of the ten states referred to.

The ninth on the list is a little different from the rest; it is not a northern state.

Oklahoma! Ever since its admission it has been considered very dry. Senator W. B. Pine (R.) seeking re-election, is a dry now—not vociferously so, but entirely dry.

Ex-Senator Thomas P. Gore (D.), tempting a come-back into public life after a long interval, is anything but a dry. He is extremely wet.

And it is anybody's election, from all accounts.

THE TENTH state is the scene of a regular knock-down-and-drag-out wet-and-dry fight.

Montana—a turbulent state anyway.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D.), striving desperately to retain his seat, has long been known as one of the driest solons in Washington—one of the ablest, too—recognized as a great credit to the bonanza country. But Montana has given many indications of ultra-wetness. In fact, like Mrs. McCormick, in Illinois, Senator Walsh has sought to crawl a little in orders without stopping for breath. Now, however, he has paused for a moment and Peter thought she was looking for someone. The boy was right.

"Nurse Ant! Nurse Ant! Where is the Head Nurse?" called Commander. A fat Black Ant stepped forward.

"Here, Commander!" the fat Ant cried. "What can I do to serve you?"

"Assemble your sisters and bid them carry the babies to the farther side of the Ant Hill. Keep watch of what is going on; of course one or two of your younger nurses will be good girl scouts and report to you every movement. Should you learn that the battle is going against our side, Head Nurse, waste no time in mourning over the fact, but pick up the babies and run away with them as fast and as far as you can. The Worker Ants will follow you, while we soldiers hold the enemy at bay. When the Workers overtake you, they will help you build a new home."

"Please, Commander!" Head Nurse held up a timid laugh.

"Well, what is it?" Commander spoke to Head Nurse much as might a teacher to a child in school.

"Suppose you can't hold the enemy? What is to prevent the Red Ants following the Worker Ants and overtaking them and us, too?"

"There is no such word as 'can't' in the Ant language!" declared Commander, severely. "We are not going to lose this battle if I can help it, and I think I can if you don't keep me standing here talking too long. Listen, Head Nurse! Be sure if you have to run, to run as far as you can and double on your tracks so you'll not leave a straight trail for the enemy to follow. Remember the underground passages that lead to the upper world? Escape through those, and block them up behind you!"

Next: "That's the Question!"

Prepare for Lifetime of Work

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Judging by the amount of mail received on the subject, keeping normal weight is one of the weightiest of questions. Thirty per cent of the letters read this week have asked questions about it.

It can be done. But most people who say they want to do it, really don't want to. They don't want to do it enough to make themselves slightly uncomfortable. They start in with a big hurrah and diet for three or four days to a week, and then fall off the vegetable cart with a dull thud.

Then they go around saying that there is nothing in these reduction cures, that they are dangerous, that they can't be carried out, etc.

The prospective reducer must realize several things.

First, it is a lifetime job. He is not an eighteen-day job or a short spurt. If you need to lose weight, you are probably constitutionally overweight and will have to keep at it as long as you live.

Second, it takes knowledge, brains and character.

In other words, there is no royal road to leanness. There is no short cut. You cannot get a trick system, and expect by following it a few weeks to emerge nice and thin and stay that way indefinitely when you go back on a general diet.

Third, a series of short dieting periods, once every six months, are harmful rather than beneficial. It is the long pull that counts.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Miss A. (Sanquett, N. Y.):

"Would you please give me the caloric value of an ordinary sized baker's cookie? I am trying to substitute a cookie for dessert rather than eating a piece of pie at dinner time. Also please give me the caloric value of a canned peach, and a ten-cent dish of plain ice cream."

Answer: These are good questions, and show a knowledge of the proper way to reduce weight. Going on a strict diet for a few days or weeks seldom results in any permanent reduction. But the lowering of the caloric value of foods eaten over a long period of time is the safe and efficient way to reduce.

The only difficulty in answering these questions is that the amounts of the foods mentioned are not given. An ordinary baker's cookie might mean almost anything. A vanilla wafer contains about 45 calories. A cookie three inches in diameter has about 100 calories. A piece of apple pie (average portion) has about 350 calories. An average portion of canned peaches has about 50 to 75 calories. An average portion of ice cream contains about 200 calories. It depends on its richness.

(EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Clendenning cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendenning, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.)

Don't Call on Former Fiance

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: About four years ago I was engaged to two boys. One I married and fooled the other. The one I married proved very unfaithful to me. He tells me he has stopped, but still he goes to the woman's house all the time, and when he gets his wages he goes and makes away with every bit of them.

"I never nag him or say anything about it, but I am so worried and can't decide what to do. Shall I tell this woman's husband or shall I go on worrying to myself? I have been a true wife to my husband.

"I have not heard from the other boy since I married, but he once loved me and I loved him. So do I love my husband, but his treatment is driving me mad. Shall I try to get in touch with the other boy, whom I believe I still love?"

"DISGUSTED AND LONELY WIFE."

You say nothing of having any children, so I shall take it for granted that you have none. If you are so disgusted and lonely that you want to leave your husband, do so and support yourself. I don't see that it would do any good to go to the woman's husband and tell him. He probably would not believe you, and if your husband is really in love with her it would merely cause them to use more secrecy in meeting or to run away together. Continue to do everything you can to win your husband to yourself and so make a success of your marriage, and put your former friend out of your mind. How could he trust you after the way you treated him? Promising to marry two men at the same time and leaving one in the lurch was not exactly a kind or honorable way of treating either. Many girls seem to think it is all right to treat men in this way before they married, no matter how the men involved suffer. It seems rather ironic that the man you finally married should be untrue.

Don't try to get in touch with the other boy. Work out your problem by yourself. If you find you cannot win your husband's loyalty, leave him if you would be happier, and if you ever have another lover—which you probably will—be true to him before as well as after marriage. Then you may expect him to be true to you.

A FRIEND: I do not have space enough in the column to describe games for parties. Your public library will have books of games that will help you. There are the usual Halloween games of ducking for apples, fortune telling, telling of ghost stories. With such a large company as you are planning on entertaining you will have to have some groups playing one thing and some others. Sorry not to be able to help you further.

M. A. S.: Phone the boy friend or write him and say you are sorry you did not speak when you met him. And hereafter don't make any promises to less when you go with other boys nor expect him to when he steps out. Just be good friends and try to avoid quarreling.

DISSATISFIED: You may love your boy friend and still like to occasionally go with others. Dissatisfied. The best way to do it is to be frank with him and say that while you are very fond of him you think from the state of your own feelings and your age, you do not want to be tied to just one friend. That you would rather go with other boys one in awhile in other groups. Give him the same privilege and try to get him to agree. In a year or so you will be a "steady" boy friend.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: There appeared in your column a letter signed M. L. C. You would do me a very good turn if through the column I could ask M. L. C. if perhaps one of the initials is not really correct, and H. M. L. C. is the person I think.

"The mentioned initials comes just a little ahead in the alphabet, then mine. Of course I might be wrong, but M. L. C., if you read this, please answer, and you might make someone happy. I thank you very much. JANE."

There you are, Jane. You're welcome.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Lanolin

Mrs. L. Socia: Lanolin should not be used as a cold or cleansing cream. It is primarily a skin food, and is used for a dry, chapped face and hands, and to help remove lines and wrinkles. You may use it all over your face and neck if you wish.

Hair Waving

A Reader: If you have your hair waved each time you shampoo it, it will eventually become trained to retain a soft, even wave. You might try putting combs in your hair. After a little practice you should be quite proficient at it.

Skin Peel

Mrs. H.: Skin peeling should be done by an expert, and not by an inexperienced person. Unless you protect the new skin from the sun's rays, it will become as freckled as the old skin was.

EDITORS NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

FAITH UNITES WITH GOD—Jesus saith unto them, Have faith in God. For verily I say unto you, That whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea, and shall not doubt in his heart, but shall believe that those things which he saith shall come to pass; he shall have whatsoever he saith.—Mark 11:22, 23.

MUCH ANNOYANCE

A questionnaire-survey conducted by a professor has discovered 21,000 annoyances. As a matter of fact there are as many sources of annoyance as there are human beings in the world, about 1,900,000,000, at the last count; while the number of specific acts of annoyance which the ingenuity of these individuals is capable of devising is astronomical. The professor picks out 507 of the most common ones and from a study of these arrives at certain interesting conclusions.

About 57 per cent of all common annoyances issue from the behavior or misbehavior of other people. Observations in certain sectors of urban life would place the figure higher. Capacity for annoyance is a manifestation of progress, we are told; but we doubt it, although such progress as the world is now making obviously increases the opportunities for annoying other people. Women, we read, are more easily annoyed than men. We have our doubts about that, too. Woman's greater capacity for being annoyed may only be an appearance due to the fact that under male dominance her nerves are exposed to exacerbation more frequently than man's are.

Among the commonest annoyances to which both men and women are exposed in this civilized country, with the percentage assigned to each in the professor's survey, are coughing in one's face, 28.9 per cent; a mosquito for a bedmate, 26.3 per cent; a young person showing disrespect to a much older person, 25.6 per cent; a salesman attempting to force a buy, 22.9 per cent; acting as if one knew it all, 21.9 per cent; a dirty bed, 27.8 per cent; audible snoring, 20.5 per cent; advice from the back seat, 20.8 per cent; songs and poems about mother, 4.5 per cent. The reader may add to the list from his or her own experience, ad libitum.

Annoyances that arise from the behavior of others are the products of thoughtlessness, a lack of good breeding, active or passive selfishness or articulate self-satisfaction. The man who knows it all is unquestionably the most annoying of God's mistakes, when his unconscious ignorance manifests itself volubly. The more closely people of different upbringings and outlooks upon life are associated with each other the more likely they are to annoy each other. Asserting his proprietorship by slapping his wife's face in a bridge game, turning on the radio when she wants to read and maintaining a hold on her arm on the street, as if she might runaway, are all little annoyances which the ill-bred husband is capable of administering to a gently bred wife. Corrugity, a raucous voice, a horse laugh, vulgarities of any kind, an excess of curiosity about another's personal affairs, a disinclination to give others half the road or sidewalk, all find a place on the list of preventable annoyances.

The way to rid life of these obstacles to agreeable association is to consult the feelings of others.

REPORTING ON PROHIBITION

Hopes are held out that the national law enforcement commission will be able to make a report on the relation of the prohibition situation to crime early in the next session of congress. The main job of this commission is to consider how our laws and judicial procedure can be so improved as to restrain the lawlessness that now disgraces the country. This is one of the most serious problems that our country ever faced.

The people are very much excited over prohibition, but they should not become so emotional about this question, that they divert this commission from its main task of considering the crime problem.

This commission can not settle the prohibition problem. People's minds are fairly well made up on that question, and they will not be very much swayed by any such investigation. The commission should throw light on this situation, but it would do well to get this side of its work out of the way, and then give its main attention to the big central problem of crime.

AN ODD STORY, AN ODD MAN

It's another man's story, but I'm going to write it, just the same. Lincoln Steffens told it to me about Jo Davidson, that famous American sculptor who looks like a gnome and works like a giant—who was gone all over this earth to make heads and busts of the strong men and the talented, of Mussolini and Anatole France and D. H. Lawrence and Rockefeller and Rodin, of babies and men and women and children.

Once Jo Davidson was poor and unknown and he wanted to get to Paris to study. He didn't have a dime, but he knew a rich man and the rich man lent Jo Davidson $500. That was enormous wealth to Davidson. It took him to Paris when he was nearly desperate. It got him his chance and he used that chance to get on his feet and show the world what his quick brain and keen eye and amazing fingers could do. . . . In a few years he was famous, able to charge fat fees to the rich and to the poor, when they interested him, just nothing at all.

One day, walking on the streets of Paris with Steffens, Davidson met his friend, the rich man who had lent him the $500. . . . Davidson stopped to talk to his benefactor, while Steffens went on. When Davidson caught up with Steffens he said the millionaire had asked where he intended to repay the money.

"What did you tell him?"

"I told him I couldn't do it," replied Davidson, "because I didn't have enough money and I never would have enough. The $500 he lent me was worth MILLIONS to me at that time and I'd never have millions. I couldn't pay it back to him, but I'd wait until I met someone who needed $500 as much as I needed it then and I'd lend the $500 or some part of it to that person and HE could lend it to someone else to whom it was worth a million dollars. And so, it would ALWAYS be a million dollars, while if I paid my friend his just debt it would merely be $500 again—or even less, because he had so much money it was hardly more important to him than 50 cents on a dollar."

"What did the rich man say to that?" asked Steffens.

"He laughed at me and said goodbye. I gathered that he thinks I'm a nut."

Well perhaps Jo Davidson IS a "nut," but if he is he's a wise sort of "nut," and his idea is a good one. He applies it to money, but the rest of us can apply to actions, to the favors we may receive from life. It wouldn't work very well in business, but it will work perfectly in friendship, in the common give-and-take existence of human beings. It's a device for returning to life a small portion of what we have received.

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

Who was Louisa M. Alcott?

Louisa May Alcott was an American writer born at Germantown, Pa., Nov. 29, 1832. She began her active life as a teacher, writing stories of harmless sensation for weekly journals and publishing the insignificant "Flower Fables" in 1855. During the Civil war she volunteered as an army nurse and wrote for a newspaper the letters afterwards collected as "Hospital Sketches" in 1863. She first attracted notice with "Little Women" in 1868, which was the best and most popular of her writings, in which she drew herself as the character Jo. In later years she suffered much from ill health, but her writing was to the last singularly buoyant and hopeful, full of faith in human nature, democracy and freedom. She died at Boston, March 6, 1888.

Albinos

What is an albino? The term albino was first applied to the white negroes of West Africa by the Portuguese. It is now applied to any person in whom there is a congenital deficiency of pigment in the hair, skin, iris and choroid of the eye. The skin is abnormally pale, the hair is white or pale flaxen, and the iris is pink. Albinism is found in many races as a rare condition. It is sometimes a family trait. It occurs frequently among rabbits, mice, birds and other lower animals.

An Element

How is phosphorus made? Phosphorus is not made, it is an element, discovered by Brandt, a Hamburg alchemist, in 1669. It does not occur free in nature, but is found abundantly in the form of phosphates. It is obtained, however, largely from bone ash, which is treated with sulphuric acid. This sets free in solution the phosphoric acid while the calcium sulphate is precipitated out. The acid is then concentrated and heated and then mixed with sawdust or coke and strongly heated in clay retorts, the result being a liberation of the phosphorus as a vapor. This is condensed under water in vessels of clay.

Last of Line

What was the name and nationality of the king who lost Constantinople to the Turks in 1453?

Constantine XI, the last of the Byzantine emperors, lost the city of Constantinople to Mohammed II in 1453 after a long siege, during which Constantine appealed in vain for aid to the princes of Christendom. He lost his life in its defense. The city was the capital of the Eastern or Byzantine Empire, with the patriarch of Constantinople recognized as the head of the Christian church in the East. In the struggle between Latin and Greek Christianity Constantinople was naturally the great opponent of Rome. In 1204 it passed into the control of the Latins, but in 1261 the Greeks regained the city and kept it until its fall before the armies of Mohammed II.

Bo-Broadway

—By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE—

NEW YORK CITY, New York.—The proprietor of Sixth Avenue Nose Bag, in the heart of the employment agency district, distressed at the sight of hundreds of jobless men milling in his neighborhood with their belt buckles jammed into the last notch, cut his prices to a point just a hair's-breadth thin, a side of charity. He operates at a loss every day, and the duration of his benevolent depends on the size of his bankroll.

A long line of persons who have been haunting the agencies stand outside the restaurant waiting for seats about the round, neat counters. Busy waitresses, who have agreed with the proprietor to work without tips, efficiently serve the customers.

A sad feature of the experiment is that a few who can afford to pay higher prices and who do steady jobs, take advantage of the situation and usurp the places of those really in need.

Speaking of phony yarns: A recent story that gained wide circulation by the "grapevine" method dealt with the construction of one of the town's tallest buildings. According to the story—accepted as fact and in good faith rehearsed in this department—and structure is being rushed to completion at such speed that despite all zeal in safeguarding the workers, forty of them lost their lives.

An investigation discloses that the author of this unpleasantly false yarn must have been a pessimist, careless with his zeroes. As a matter of fact only four or five men were killed, a marvelous record in construction work of that magnitude.

Many a man falls from the truth while climbing toward it.

OH YEAH!

Ten Contests Out of Thirty-five In 1930 Battle for Senate Seats Are Over Wet-and-Dry Issue

—CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Out of this fall's 35 senate contests—

There are two in Kansas, Kentucky, New Jersey and Tennessee also have, each, a little additional quibble for very short term honors, but these three are not included in the total; they are only for December, January and February, which does not amount to much.

Anyway, out of this fall's 35 senate contests, 10 are, more or less noticeably, wet-and-dry fights.

STATES in which the senate candidates on both sides are dry, such as West Virginia and most of the southern group; states in which both major parties have made wet nominations; states in which the wet-and-dry issue seems entirely submerged for the present—these do not count, of course.

Net results of the jousting for seats in the house of representatives means as much, in connection with the prohibition question, as the outcome of the senatorial campaign, to be sure—but representatives are too numerous to be reckoned except in job lots.

As for governorships—they have plenty of wet-and-dry significance, too. However, it is a significance which cannot be estimated so readily as conclusions can be drawn from the record of votes cast for members of the two branches of congress.

IN 10 STATES, then, the wet-and-dry issue is more or less clearly defined, senatorially.

It is defined with crystal clarity. In Illinois where ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis (D.) is unqualifiedly wet, while Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick (R.) whatever she may be now, indisputably was nominated as a dry—in Ohio and Massachusetts, where two out-and-out dries, respectively Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch (R.) and ex-Senator William M. Butler (R.) are opposing Robert J. Bulkley (D.) and Marcus A. Coolidge (D.) equally out-and-out wets—in Delaware, where ex-Senator Thomas F. Bayard (D.) emphatically wet, is arrayed against Senator Daniel O. Hastings (R.), a dry, if silence, when he is referred to as one, gives consent.

These states are generally regarded as doubtful in November. Iowa is not; it goes G. O. P. nine times in ten. Nevertheless, prohibition is an issue there, as far as Senator Daniel F. Stead (D.) can make it so, in his wet fight for reelection, versus Representative L. J. Dickinson (R.), a dry.

IN MINNESOTA the wets are making the most of Einar Hoidalde (D.). He is not an ardent wet candidate, but at least he agrees to be wet if his state is wet. His opponents are Senator Thomas D. Schell (R.) and Ernest Lundeen (Farmer-Labor), both dries, besides C. A. Lund independent dry. Nebraska, in addition to being politically mighty lopsided, like Iowa, appears wet-and-dry rather indifferently. Still, it reveals a line-up—ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock (D.), a wet against Senator George W. Norris (R.), if Uncle George may be so intimated, a dry, though he supported Al Smith.

Wandering politicians, just back from the west, describe Colorado as peculiar. Edward P. Costigan (D.) is a bone-dry and George H. Shaw (R.) was referred to during the primaries as a wet. Yet their affiliations are such that now the Costigan candidacy is men ted as slightly the wetter and the Shaw candidacy as a trifle the dryer of the two, in so far as the question figures in the silver state campaign—which, it is said, is not much.

SO MUCH for eight of the ten states referred to.

The ninth on the list is a little different from the rest; it is not a northern state.

Oklahoma! Ever since its admission it has been considered very dry. Senator W. B. Pine (R.) seeking re-election, is a dry now—not vociferously so, but entirely dry.

Ex-Senator Thomas P. Gore (D.), attempting a come-back into public life after a long interval, is anything but a dry. He is extremely wet.

And it is anybody's election, from all accounts.

THE TENTH state is the scene of a regular knock-down-and-drag-out wet-and-dry fight.

Montana!—a turbulent state anyway.

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (D.), striving desperately to retain his seat, has long been known as one of the driest solons in Washington—one of the ablest, too—recognized as a great credit to the bonanza commonwealth. But Montana has given many indications of ultra-wetness. In fact, like Mrs. McCormick, in Illinois, Senator Walsh has sought to crawl a little in the dryness—offers to cast his senatorial vote as his constituents dictate.

It remains to be seen whether or not this will save him. The G. O. P. hopes not. Its candidate is Justice Albert J. Galen (R., of course), an unequivocal wet.

Montana advises say it's nip-and-tuck.

NOW, CAN anyone have read this far (if anyone has) without having noticed one quite obvious thing?

Here are nine northern states (not to include Oklahoma) in which prohibition is somewhat of an issue, and in several of them the strongly predominant one, and in at least seven of them (to omit mixed-up Colorado) the wet senate candidate is the Democrat.

Does it not look as if the northern Democracy had turned pretty dry?

THEY TELL ME (and I can readily believe it) that wet Democrats are praying themselves black in the face for the election of Jim Ham Lewis, Bob Bulkley, Tom Gore, Marcus Coolidge, Einar Hoidalde, Thomas F. Bayard—yes, and of Edward P. Costigan, on the strength of his moist affiliations, if nothing else.

And of course they would be praying for Gilbert Hitchcock and Dan Stead also, if they thought it would do any good.

Put how are they praying on Senator Tom Walsh?

TWO YEARS hence the Democrats will meet in national convention and my guess is that the northern wing of them will want to nominate a wet.

The southern wing will be hard to convince, as usual, no doubt. Still, even the south likes to win. It will sound mighty impressive to the Dixie-landers if the northern chaps can position to proclaim:

"We point with pride to Jim Ham Lewis, Bob Bulkley, Tom Gore, Marcus Coolidge, Einar Hoidalde, Thomas F. Bayard and Edward P. Costigan"—regarding the Gilbert Hitchcock and Dan Stead.

And then, if they have to add regretfully:

"But we lost Tom Walsh; he was too dry."

Why! that will about "put the hat on it," as the English say.

Peter's Adventures

—By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent—

FURTHER ORDERS

Commander Ant had shouted orders without stopping for breath. Now, however, she paused for a moment, and Peter thought she was looking for someone. The boy was right.

"Nurse Ant! Nurse Ant! Where is the Head Nurse?" called Commander. A fat Black Ant stepped forward.

"Here, Commander!" the fat Ant cried. "What can I do to serve you?"

"Assemble your sisters and bid them carry the babies to the far side of the Ant Hill. Keep watch of what is going on; of course one or two of your younger nurses will be good girl scouts and report to you every movement. Should you learn that the battle is going against our side, Head Nurse, waste no time in mourning over the fact, but pick up the babies and run away with them as fast as you can. The Worker Ants will follow you, while we soldiers hold the enemy at bay. When the Workers overtake you, they will help you build a new home."

"Please, Commander!" Head Nurse held up a timid face.

"Well, what is it?" Commander spoke to Head Nurse much as might a teacher to a child in school.

"Suppose you can't hold the enemy. What is to prevent the Red Ants following the Worker Ants and overtaking them and us, too?"

"Please, Commander!" in the Ant language!" declared Commander, severely. "We are not going to lose this battle if I can help it, and I think I can if you don't keep me standing here talking too long. Listen, Head Nurse!"

Be sure if you have to run, to run as far as you can and double on your tracks so you'll not leave a straight trail for the enemy to follow. Remember the underground passages that lead to the upper world? Escape through those, and block them up behind you!"

Prepare for Lifetime of Work

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Judging by the amount of mail received on the subject, keeping normal weight is one of the weightiest of questions. Thirty per cent of the letters read this week have asked questions about it.

It can be done. But most people who say they want to do it, really don't want to. They don't want to badly enough to make themselves slightly uncomfortable. They start in with a big hurrah and diet for three or four days to a week, and then fall off the vegetable cart with a dull thud.

Then they go around saying that there is nothing in these reduction cures, that they are dangerous, that they can't be carried out, etc.

The prospective reducer must realize several things.

First, it is a lifetime job. Not an eighteen-day job or a short spurt. If you need to lose weight, you are probably constitutionally overweight and will have to keep at it as long as you live.

Second, it takes knowledge, brains and character.

In other words, there is no royal road to leanness. There is no short cut. You cannot get a trick system and expect by following it a few weeks to emerge nice and thin and stay that way indefinitely when you go back on a general diet.

Third, a series of short dieting periods, once every six months, are harmful rather than beneficial. It is the long pull that counts.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Miss A. (Sanquett, N. Y.):

"Would you please give me the caloric value of an ordinary sized baker's cookie? I am trying to substitute a cookie for dessert rather than eating a piece of pie at dinner time. Also please give me the caloric value of a canned peach, and a ten-cent dish of plain ice cream."

Answer: These are good questions, and show a knowledge of the proper way to reduce weight. Going on a strict diet for a few days or weeks seldom results in any permanent reduction. But the lowering of the caloric value of foods eaten over a long period of time is the safe and efficient way to reduce.

The only difficulty in answering these questions is that the amounts of the foods mentioned are not given. "An ordinary baker's cookie" might mean almost anything. A vanilla wafer contains about 45 calories. A cookie three inches in diameter has about 100 calories. A piece of apple pie (average portion) has about 350 calories. An average portion of canned peaches has about 50 to 75 calories. An average portion of ice cream contains about 200 calories. It depends on its richness.

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Clendenning cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan Clendenning, care of this paper. Write legibly and not over 200 words.

Don't Call on Former Fiance

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: About four years ago I was engaged to two boys. One I married and fooled the other. The one I married proved very unfaithful to me. He tells me he has stopped, but still he goes to the woman's house all the time, and when he gets his wages he goes and makes away with every bit of them.

"I never nag him or say anything about it, but I am so worried and can't decide what to do. Shall I tell this woman's husband or shall I go on worrying to myself? I have been a true wife to my husband."

"I have not heard from the other boy since I married, but he once loved me and I loved him. So do I love my husband, but his treatment is driving me mad. Shall I try to get in touch with the other boy, whom I believe I still love?"

"DISGUSTED AND LONELY"

You say nothing of having any children, so I shall take it for granted that you have none. If you are so disgusted and lonely that you want to leave your husband, do so and support yourself. I don't see that it would do any good to go to the woman's husband and tell him. He probably would not believe you, and if your husband is really in love with her it would merely cause them to run away together. Continue to do everything you can to win your husband to yourself and make a success of your marriage, and put your former boy friend out of your mind. How could he trust you after the way you treated him? Promising to marry two men at the same time and leaving one in the lurch was not exactly a kind or honorable way of treating either. Many girls seem to think it is all right to treat men in this way before they married, no matter how the men involved suffer. It seems rather ironic that the man you finally married should be untrue.

Don't try to get in touch with the other boy. Work out your problem by yourself. If you find you cannot win your husband's loyalty, leave him if you would be happier, and if you ever have another lover—which you probably will—be true to him.

He had only four losers because two games ended in ties. The Baylor-Centenary game was not included in the list of contests to be made the basis of predictions but "Bunny" pleaded so hard for the chance to select Baylor as the winner that we would like to casually mention Centenary's 7 to 2 triumph Saturday. Anyway he had these winners:

Michigan State, 45; Case, 0.
These two games ended in a tie: Yale, 7; Army, 7.
Chicago, 0; Mississippi, 0.

Although he plays a tackle position, Big Ed Jacobs, Xenia, star linesman for Muskingum College's football team, was largely responsible for two of the touchdowns scored by the unbeaten Muskies Saturday in defeating Mt. Union, 20 to 7.

"Jake" blocked a punt on the forty-eight yard line in the second quarter which led to a touchdown and in the fourth period he slipped through and blocked another, which he converted into a score by retrieving the ball and racing twenty-five yards over the goal line himself.

If "Jake" does not receive all Ohio recognition in the Ohio Conference this season then we will miss our guess.

All things come to he who waits, to coin a new expression, and the same may be said to apply to Cincinnati's football team. The Bearcats recorded their first victory in five years of Buckeye Conference competition by defeating Denison Saturday, 12 to 7, and the triumph was also Cincinnati's first over Denison in football in the last sixteen years.

Bill Baxley is doing a little angling these autumnal days (the adjective is subject to change on short notice) and hopes to hook a game for the Lang Chevrolet independent basketball team with the bearded House of David cage quintet to be staged here during the coming season. Terry Benton Harbor, Mich. coach annually puts out a famous traveling basketball team and its basketball team expects to play in this locality on its coming tour of the country. The whiskered team would undoubtedly prove a great box office attraction here.

The great unsolved mystery of the present local football season is what has become of that noted Shawnee Park grid eleven—the Park-O-Lights.

Piquads Now Only Undeclared Team In League

Troy High School's football team, perpetrator of two Miami Valley League upsets this season, was itself made the victim in an astonishing surprise defeat in a league game Saturday, losing 13 to 6 to a Sidney High eleven which had heretofore lost four straight games this season.

Piqua Central High moved a step nearer another league championship by swamping Greenville High's slipping team, 33 to 0 for its third straight league victory Saturday while Miamiburg took Xenia Central in stride Friday, 12 to 0.

Piqua is now the only unbeaten league team and even if the Indians lose one of their two remaining league encounters the worst they can get is a tie for the title.

Wilberforce Battles Tuskegee To 0-0 Tie

FAILURE OF PUNTER CHEATS OHIO TEAM OF GAME SATURDAY

Intersectional Tilt At Chicago Ends
Scoreless

By W. I. GIBSON
(Special to the Xenia Gazette)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 27.—The value of the "foot" in football was never more prominently emphasized than it was here Saturday as Wilberforce University of Ohio, minus a great kicker, and Tuskegee Institute of Alabama, in proud possession of one, battled to a scoreless tie before a crowd of 15,000 at Soldiers' Field.

The third annual battle between the Ohioans and the sons of Alabama afforded many thrills but none were great enough to satiate the appetites of the football-crazy fans who implored their representative to favor them with a victory.

Two years ago at Tuskegee these teams battled to a 6-6 tie. Last year, on the same turf upon which they fought on Saturday, Tuskegee snatched a 6-0 win from the Buckeyes. Saturday's chapter, then, kept Tuskegee in the lead, but it was an out-played Tiger machine that thrice within the very shadow of defeat, emerged unscathed by dint of the great kicking of Jimmy Johnson, right halfback, who proved to be Cleve Abbott's defensive star.

The Alabama lad time and again socked the leather with vigorous boots, sending it high in the air and far down the field to force the Buckeyes to spend their energies in working it back. Between the two five-yard lines Tuskegee was a beaten team, as Wilberforce's ten first downs to Tuskegee's three will show. But when the final white stripe separating Wilberforce from the goal and victory was reached, Tuskegee either rose to great heights or Wilberforce erred in judgment, or failed in execution.

Until this game, Tuskegee, which won the national title last year, was unbeaten and untied this season while Wilberforce had forfeited its claim for national recognition by losing unexpectedly to Fisk at Nashville, Tenn. a week ago.

Although handicapped by injuries, the Bulldogs outplayed Tuskegee, to some extent and even threatened to score in the second quarter, but a thirty-yard lateral pass from Thornhill to Tynes over the end zone went for naught when the play was called back.

The great play of Tynes, Thornhill and Moore in the backfield and of "Doc" Clark, Robinson "Red" Fowler and Nixon on the line, sparked for the Ohioans, while the offensive play of Shanklin, the great kicking of Johnson, and the all-around play of Belcher and E. Adams, tackle, was outstanding for Tuskegee.

Tuskegee completed three of ten forward passes for a yardage of thirty-seven, while Wilberforce gained ninety-five yards on six of fifteen attempts. Tuskegee was penalized thirty yards and Wilberforce thirty-five. Johnson averaged forty-five yards on his punts while Moore made thirty-five with his.

Wilberforce will make its second invasion of the South next Saturday, meeting Clark University at Atlanta, Ga. The lineups:

Wilberforce Tuskegee
Fowler ..... Robinson
Clark ..... E. Adams
Nixon ..... Hockett
Rittig ..... Champion
Oliver ..... C. Adams
Belcher ..... Belcher

IRISH PLAY THAT STUNNED PITT AND FANS

Here goes Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame halfback, tearing away for his brilliant 65-yard run to a touchdown on Notre Dame's first play of the first quarter of the Irish-Pittsburgh game at Pittsburgh which Notre Dame won, 35-19. The score, originating in a mystifying spinner reverse play, stunned the Pittsburgh team and 75,000 fans. Two plays later the Irish scored their second touchdown.

FOUR COLLEGES ARE NEITHER DEFEATED NOR TIED IN STATE

Heidelberg Princes And Muskingum Still Lead Pack

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Ohio's thirty-eight college football teams stepped into the home stretch today as they prepared for November, the high-point of the grid season.

Eight teams in the Buckeye State remain undefeated. Four of them have had their records smirched by ties. Many of them will go down to defeat before the season closes, but the campaign will have been more or less successful for all of them.

The undefeated and untied teams to date are Akron, Muskingum, Heidelberg and Capital. The others, with only ties to mar their records, are Ashland, Bowling Green, Ohio University and Urbana.

Heidelberg and Muskingum still continue to dominate the Ohio conference despite the unsold records of Akron and Capital. This latter pair is expected to drop before the season is completed.

Heidelberg will undoubtedly prove to be Akron's downfall while Kent State may be Capital's Waterloo.

Heidelberg is almost certain to end the season undefeated with only Ohio Northern, Adrian, Akron and John Carroll remaining on the card.

Muskingum has a chance of tying for the Ohio conference title this year, but it is feared that Ohio University will take the count of the undefeated and will put the skids on a perfect season.

Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio will probably go into a clinch in the last game of the season to battle for the Buckeye Conference championship. Both are expected to reach the finale with even records.

Bowling Green's tramp toward another Northwestern Ohio crown was dethroned last Friday by Findlay. A 6-to-6 tie put the Falcons out of the undefeated class and gave Findlay a chance to tie for the championship. Defiance may prove to be Findlay's downfall, though, and the Bee Gees will then have the title clinched.

Case dropped out of the upper class of the state when Michigan State romped over the scientists in the high tune of 45 to 0.

Ohio State "B" and Cedarville entered the win column for the first time Saturday. The Buckeye Reserves downed Hiram, 25 to 0, and Cedarville swamped Rio Grande, 34 to 0.

Eight teams are still in search of their first victory of the season. They are Denison, Hiram, Rio Grande, Bluffton, Toledo, Western Reserve, Baldwin-Wallace and Kent State.

Cincinnati did the unexpected Saturday when the Bearcats won their first football game with Denison in sixteen years which incidentally was Cincinnati's first Buckeye Conference win since the League was formed five years ago. Denison is in the conference cellar now and will probably end the season there.

CEDARVILLE BEATS RIO GRANDE 34 TO 0 IN SEASON'S FIRST WIN

A rejuvenated Cedarville College football team tasted victory for the first time this season, swarming over Rio Grande College gridiron for a 34 to 0 triumph Saturday afternoon on the Rio Grande gridiron.

The Bormen scored in every quarter against the Welshmen. The Rio Grande eleven was handicapped to some extent by illness.

Coach Marvin Bost made a number of radical changes in the Cedarville starting lineup in an effort to produce a winning combination and his efforts bore fruit.

Quarterback Turner scored two touchdowns while Halfback Hin-

TROY HIGH VICTIM OF SURPRISE UPSET IN LEAGUE CONTEST

Sidney Pushes Over Two Touchdowns In Final Period

Victim of an amazing upset, Troy High School's football team dropped into the defeat column in the Miami Valley League for the first time this season when Sidney High, with a record of four straight defeats, rallied in the fourth period to push over two touchdowns and defeat the Trojans, 13 to 6 at Sidney Saturday.

Previously Troy had held Greenville to a scoreless tie and had beaten Miamiburg, 6 to 0 with the result the Sidney eleven was looked upon as an easy foe. Lineups:

THIS'LL BE ALL

FINISH was written on the 1930 diamond season as far as the Jamestown Independents are concerned when the Jamestown nine dropped a 4 to 2 decision to a Sabina baseball team in its final game of the season Sunday afternoon on the Leach Park diamond at Jamestown. Evans and Haughey formed the battery for Jamestown, while Taylor and J. Wical divided the pitching for Sabina with Matson behind the plate.

Pullback Ken Fields of the Army gets away a punt in first quarter of Cadets' game with Yale at New Haven, Conn., just before Ellis break through in an attempt to block the kick. Though Albie Booth, Yale star, was injured early in the game, Yale held Army to a 7-7 tie.

Bowling

OWING down 2-878 pins, Springfield's Grotto Bachelors bowling team made a clean sweep of the three games with the Xenia Recreation team in the opening match for both teams in the newly organized Miami Valley Traveling Bowling League Sunday afternoon at Springfield.

The Springfield quintet won the first game by a lopsided margin, 968 to 828. The second brush was closer, 972 to 930 and the Xenia bowlers lost the final game by a margin of only five pins, 938 to 933.

Hollis Peterson and Howard Brickel, members of the Xenia team, led both quintets, Peterson with a 623 total and Brickel with a 605 series. Johnson and Vance recorded three-game totals of 594 for the winners.

Xenia's next match in the traveling circuit will be staged on the Recreation alleys here next Saturday night against the Richmond, Ind. Y. M. C. A. team. Box score:

It appears as though nothing short of a miracle or something will stop the triumphant march of the champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team toward another Recreation League championship. The league leaders have tucked away twenty out of the first twenty games but the second-place Schmidt Oil Co. is also setting a dizzy pace and is only three games behind.

In the close City League race the Krippendorf Shoes have obtained a one-game advantage but the fact the leaders are only three full games ahead of the team in last place is evidence of how close-

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—After an irregular opening, in which gains and losses were evenly distributed among the active stocks, the market drifted lower in dull trading today. There were no important favorable developments over the week-end, and in the absence of aggressive demand for stocks, the professionals were inclined to sell. J. I. The commodity markets were dull, with cotton a few points lower. Call money loaned at 1 1/2 in the outside market, with the supply in excess of demand.

(Special to the Xenia Gazette)
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 27.—The value of the "foot" in football was never more prominently emphasized than it was here Saturday as Wilberforce University of Ohio, minus a great kicker, and Tuskegee Institute of Alabama, in proud possession of one, battled to a scoreless tie before a crowd of 15,000 at Soldiers' Field.

The third annual battle between the Ohioans and the sons of Alabama afforded many thrills but none were great enough to satiate the appetites of the football-crazy fans who implored their representative to favor them with a victory.

Two years ago at Tuskegee these teams battled to a 6-6 tie. Last year, on the same turf upon which they fought on Saturday, Tuskegee snatched a 6-0 win from the Buckeyes. Saturday's chapter, then, kept Tuskegee in the lead, but it was an out-played Tiger machine that thrice within the five shadow of defeat, emerged unscathed by dint of the great kicking of Jimmy Johnson, right halfback, who proved to be Cleve Abbott's defensive star.

The Alabama lad time and again socked the leather with vigorous boots, sending it high in the air and far down the field to force the Buckeyes to spend their energies in working it back. Between the two five-yard lines Tuskegee was a beaten team, as Wilberforce's ten first downs to Tuskegee's three will show. But when the final white stripe separating Wilberforce from the goal and victory was reached, Tuskegee either rose to great heights or Wilberforce erred in judgment or failed in execution.

Until this game, Tuskegee, which won the national title last year, was unbeaten and untied this season while Wilberforce had forfeited its claim for national recognition by losing unexpectedly to Fisk at Nashville, Tenn. a week ago.

Although handicapped by injuries, the Bulldogs outplayed Tuskegee, to some extent and even threatened to score in the second quarter, but a thirty-yard lateral pass from Thornhill to Tynes over the end zone went for naught when the play was called back.

The great play of Tynes, Thornhill and Moore in the backfield and of "Doc" Clark, Robinson "Red" Fowler and Nixon on the line, sparked for the Ohioans, while the offensive play of Shanklin, the great kicking of Johnson, and the all-around play of Belcher and Adams, tackle, was outstanding for Tuskegee.

Tuskegee completed three of ten forward passes for a yardage of thirty-seven, while Wilberforce gained ninety-five yards on six of fifteen attempts. Tuskegee was penalized thirty yards and Wilberforce thirty-five. Johnson averaged forty-five yards on his punts while Moore made thirty-five with his.

Wilberforce will make its second invasion of the South next Saturday, meeting Clark University at Atlanta, Ga. The lineups:

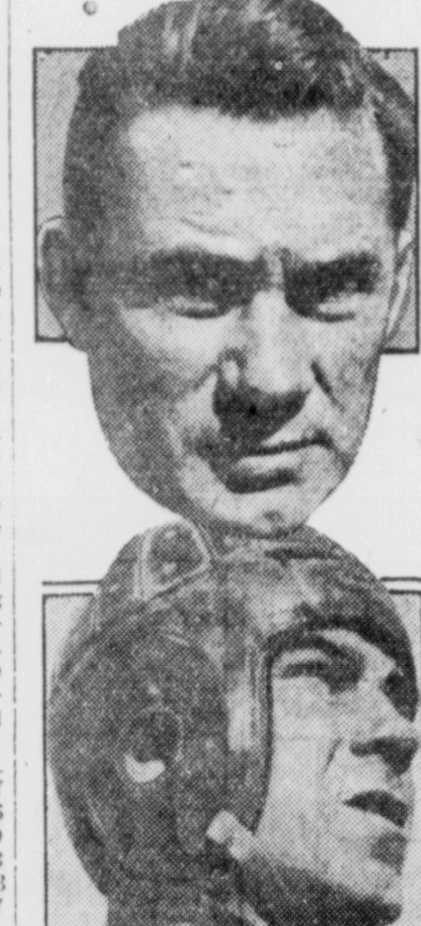

Wilberforce	Tuskegee
Fowler	Belcher
Clark	Adams
Nixon	Hockett
Russell	Champion
Rittig	C. Adams
Oliver	Belcher
Lucas	H. Harrison
Thornhill	Moberly
Terry	L. H. Stevenson
Tynes	J. Johnson
Moore	Shanklin

Score by periods:
Tuskegee 0 0 0 0-0

Substitutions: Wilberforce—Robinson for Lucas; Hamilton for Terry; Greene for Thornhill; Tuskegee—Wiley for Moberly; Moberly for Wiley; McKinney for Belcher.

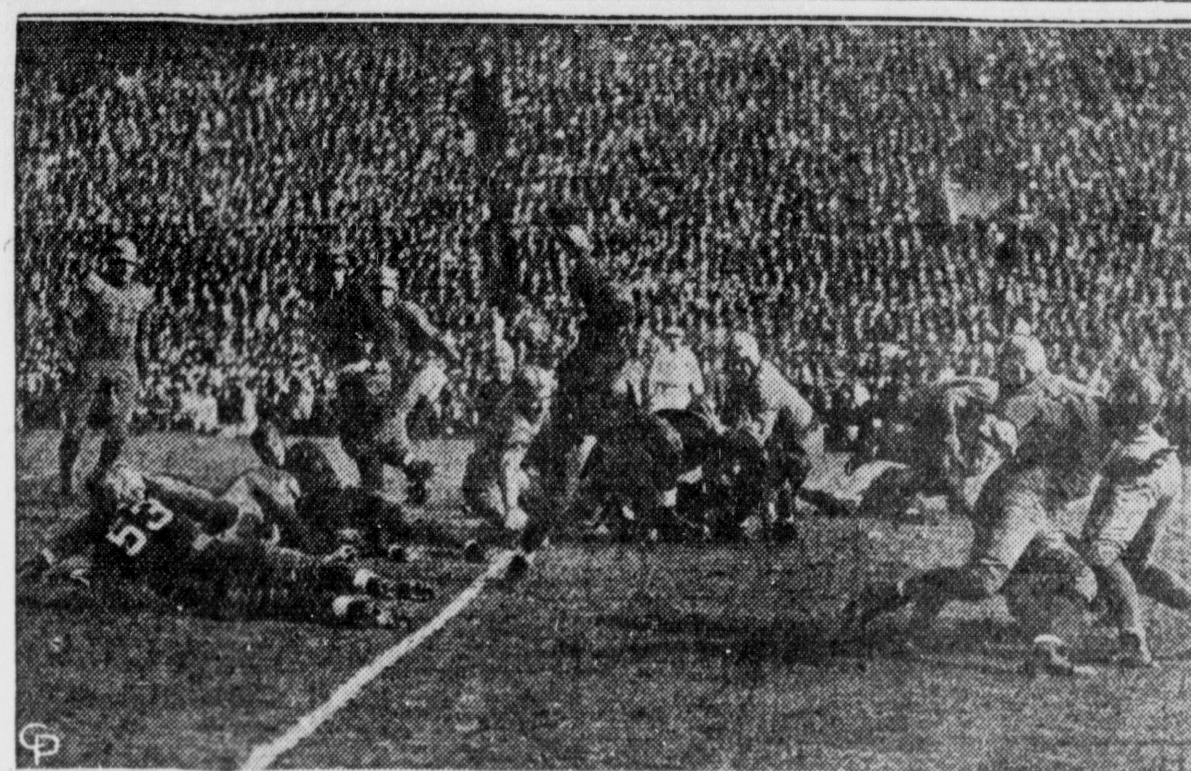

Officials—Referee: Rivers (Talladega); Umpire: Clement (N. C. State); Head Linesman: Posey (Penn State); Field Judge: Frank Young.

Coach, End Brothers

IRISH PLAY THAT STUNNED PITT AND FANS

Here goes Marchmont Schwartz, Notre Dame halfback, tearing away for his brilliant 65-yard run to a touchdown on Notre Dame's first play of the first quarter of the Irish-Pittsburgh game at Pittsburgh which Notre Dame won, 35-19. The score, originating in a mystifying spinner reverse play, stunned the Pittsburgh team and 75,000 fans. Two plays later the Irish scored their second touchdown.

A rejuvenated Cedarville College football team tasted victory for the first time this season, swarming over Rio Grande College gridiron.

The Borsmen scored in every quarter against the Welshmen. The Rio Grande eleven was handicapped to some extent by illness.

Coach Marvin Bost made a number of radical changes in the Cedarville starting lineup in an effort to produce a winning combination and his efforts bore fruit.

Quarterback Turner scored two touchdowns while Halfback Hinton, Fullback Irons and Townsley, converted from a quarterback into an end, each scored one. In the second period Townsley snatched a forty-yard pass from Turner and raced twenty-five more yards for a score, the longest bit of ground gaining of the afternoon.

Cedarville has no game this week, this being an open week in its schedule, but the Yellow Jackets will welcome the breathing spell in order to prepare for a return game with Wilmington College at Cedarville next week on Saturday morning. Score by periods:

Cedarville	7	13	7	7-34

FOUR COLLEGES ARE NEITHER DEFEATED NOR TIED IN STATE

Heidelberg Princes And Muskingum Still Lead Pack

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 27.—Ohio's thirty-eight college football teams stepped into the home stretch today as they prepared for November, the high-point of the grid season.

Eight teams in the Buckeye State remain undefeated. Four of them have had their records smirched by ties. Many of them will go down to defeat before the season closes, but the campaign will have been more or less successful for all of them.

The undefeated and untied teams to date are Akron, Muskingum, Heidelberg and Capital. The others, with only ties to mar their records, are Ashland, Bowling Green, Ohio University and Urbana.

Heidelberg and Muskingum still continue to dominate the Ohio conference despite the unsold records of Akron and Capital. This latter pair is expected to drop below the run into home is completed.

Heidelberg will undoubtedly prove to be Akron's downfall while Kent State may be Capital's Waterloo.

Heidelberg is almost certain to end the season undefeated with only Ohio Northern, Adrian, Akron and John Carroll remaining on the card.

Muskingum has a chance of tying for the Ohio conference title this year, but it is feared that Ohio University will take the count of the Muskies and will put the skids on a perfect season.

Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio will probably go into a clinch in the last game of the season to battle for the Buckeye Conference championship. Both are expected to reach the finale with even records.

Bowling Green's tramp toward another Northwestern Ohio crown was derailed last Friday by Findlay. A 6-to-6 tie put the Falcons out of the undefeated class and gave Findlay a chance to tie for the championship. Defiance may prove to be Findlay's downfall, though, and the Bee Gees will then have the title clinched.

Case dropped out of the upper class of the state when Michigan State romped over the scientists in the high tune of 45 to 0.

Ohio State "B" and Cedarville entered the win column for the first time Saturday. The Buckeye Reserves downed Hiram, 25 to 0, and Cedarville swamped Rio Grande, 34 to 0.

Eight teams are still in search of their first victory of the season. They are Denison, Hiram, Rio Grande, Bluffton, Toledo, Western Reserve, Baldwin-Wallace and Kent State.

Cincinnati did the unexpected Saturday when the Bearcats won their first football game with Denison in sixteen years which incidentally was Cincinnati's first Buckeye Conference win since the League was formed five years ago. Denison is in the conference cellar now and will probably end the season there.

CEDARVILLE BEATS RIO GRANDE 34 TO 0 IN SEASON'S FIRST WIN

A rejuvenated Cedarville College football team tasted victory for the first time this season, swarming over Rio Grande College gridiron. The Borsmen scored in every quarter against the Welshmen. The Rio Grande eleven was handicapped to some extent by illness.

Coach Marvin Bost made a number of radical changes in the Cedarville starting lineup in an effort to produce a winning combination and his efforts bore fruit.

JOE ANDERSON LEADS LEGION TO OPENING WIN AT SPRINGFIELD

Legionnaire line and hard running backfield.

Xenia marked up two touchdowns in the second quarter with Anderson skirting the Bulldog ends at will for long gains and in the third period the Legion opened a passing attack which resulted in a third score when "Bulldog" Smith fired an aerial twenty-four yards to Pino Perrine, end, who crossed the goal line unopposed.

The Legionnaire eleven is expected to play the strong Kelter Drugs at Piqua next Sunday. Lineups:

TROY HIGH VICTIM OF SURPRISE UPSET IN LEAGUE CONTEST

Sidney Pushes Over Two Touchdowns In Final Period

Victim of an amazing upset, Troy High School's football team dropped into the defeat column in the Miami Valley League for the first time this season when Sidney High, with a record of four straight defeats, rallied in the fourth period to push over two touchdowns and defeat the Trojans, 13 to 6 at Sidney Saturday.

Previously Troy had held Greenville to a scoreless tie and had beaten Miamiburg, 6 to 0 with the result the Sidney eleven was looked upon as an easy foe. Lineups:

Wright	F. Miller

Score by periods:
Sidney 0 0 13-13
Troy 6 0 0-6

Piqua touchdowns were produced from the accurate passing of "K. Y." Williams, who replaced Hart at fullback.

Piqua's unbeaten and untied eleven, with a record of three consecutive triumphs, meets Lima South at Lima next Saturday. Lineups:

Piqua	Greenville
Younce	L. Buchy

THIS'LL BE ALL

FINISH was written on the 1930 diamond season as far as the Jamestown Independents are concerned when the Jamestown nine dropped a 4 to 2 decision to a Sabina baseball team in its final game of the season Sunday afternoon on the Leach Park diamond at Jamestown.

Evans and Haughey formed the battery for Jamestown, while Taylor and J. Wical divided the pitching for Sabina with Mattson behind the plate.

AS YALE HELD STRONG ARMY TEAM TO 7-7 TIE

Fullback Ken Fields of the Army gets away a punt in first quarter of Cadets' game with Yale at New Haven, Conn., just before Ellis break through in an attempt to block the kick. Though Albie Booth, Yale star, was injured early in the game, Yale held Army to a 7-7 tie.

Bowling

OWING down 2-878 pins, Springfield's Grotto Bachelors bowling team made a clean sweep of the three games with the Xenia Recreation team in the opening match for both teams in the newly-organized Miami Valley Traveling Bowling League Sunday afternoon at Springfield.

The Springfield quintet won the first game by a 10-sided margin, 968 to 828. The second brush was closer, 972 to 950 and the Xenia bowlers lost the final game by a margin of only five pins, 938 to 933.

Hollis Peterson and Howard Brickel, members of the Xenia team, led both quintets, Peterson with a 623 total and Brickel with a 605 series. Johnson and Vance recorded three-game totals of 594 for the winners.

Xenia's next match in the traveling circuit will be staged on the Recreation alleys here next Saturday night against the Richmond, Ind. Y. M. C. A. team. Box score:

Springfield	Xenia

It appears as though nothing short of a miracle or something like the triumphant march of the champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team toward another Recreation League championship. The league leaders have tucked away twenty out of the first twenty-one games but the second-place Schmidt Oil Co. is also setting a dizzy pace and is only three games behind.

In the close City League race the Krippendorf Shoes have obtained a one-game advantage but the fact the leaders are only three full games ahead of the team in last place is evidence of how close.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—After an irregular opening, in which gains and losses were evenly distributed among the active stocks, the market drifted lower in dull trading today. There were no important favorable developments over the week-end, and in the absence of aggressive demand for stocks, the professionals were inclined to sell.

J. I. Case suffered a 5-point break to 110 1/4 on renewal of the selling which carried the stock sharply down last week.

The commodity markets were dull, with cotton a few points lower. Call money loaned at 1 1/2 in the outside market, with the supply in excess of demand.

Named America's Farm Girl Champ

Lucille Gates, of Pomona, California, is the winner of the American farm girl championship at the Los Angeles County Fair. She excelled at milking, churning, corn husking, raking and tractor driving. Although no prize for beauty was given, it was the opinion of many that this farmerette would have garnered that one, too.

The Earl of Winston's body is found in the room of Robin Smith, a young poet, at a house party at Alston Manor. Robin has attended so he may see Lady Gwendolen Winston, with whom he is desperately in love. In a fit of anger the poet locks his door and jumps out of the window, returning to his attic room. The next day he is arrested and the various members of the party testify at the coroner's inquest. Bruce Armstrong, big game hunter, is on the stand.

Bruce Armstrong, big game hunter, testifies he observed a hidden enemy between Prince Pozolevsky, a guest, and the murdered man. But the evidence is strongly against Robin. Robin Smith is called to the stand.

He denies that he had anything to do with the murder. His poems are introduced by a Scotland Yard inspector.

He is held for the crime. After the inquest Lady Dorothy Alston prevails upon Gwendolen to stay at Alston Manor while Scotland Yard detectives work on the murder case.

Inspector Linscott hunts for clues. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 23

Inspector Linscott absently watched his colleague until he was out of sight; then threw away the burned-out stump of a cigar he had been chewing and took a fresh one from his pocket. He held it flickering match to its end and in his reverie neglected to draw. In fact, a new idea struck him. He had subconsciously thought of it before, but now it was tangibly present. He'd seen a knife similar to the one which caused Lord Winston's death; he remembered perfectly now. It had belonged to one of the Canadian soldiers he knew during the war. It was dementedly like. If there was one other, might there not be a dozen similar ones? That was the question which occurred to him. It might not; in fact, it quite possibly might not be the knife Lady Gwendolen thought it was. After all, it was years since she had seen it, and if the resemblance was strong it would be easy to make a mistake. He remembered now the fellow in the army had been a fur trader. He wished he knew more about Lord Winston's life before he came to England. He wished he knew more about all the other guests, but above all he wished he could lay his hands on the stranger who was in Alston village on the afternoon and evening of the murder. He had small room and that the guilty person had dragged the body into the nearest place where it could be temporarily concealed, thinking probably that such a tiny room was unoccupied and that his deed might go undiscovered perhaps for days. There were but two ways of reaching that landing; one, from the main first floor passage and down the five stairs, where the blood was found; the other, from the billiards room and up seven or eight steps. The inspector had carefully examined the billiards room, but could find nothing of consequence there. He had discovered, however, that on the opposite side from the steps the billiards room opened into a short passage, which in turn gave egress into the grounds. It was a sort of tradesmen's entrance, another door from the passage leading to a flight of stairs which descended to the kitchen. The butler, Gaspard, had assured him that no one could have entered by that passage without his knowledge, for he and two of the maids had been sitting in the room directly below. But Linscott didn't feel so sure of that.

That outer passage and the stranger persisted in linking themselves up in his mind.

He'd hardly ever seen a case with fewer clues, if one rejected all those pointing to the poet. And the more the inspector thought about it the more certain he became that Robin Smith was only a poor victim of circumstances, and of his own folly. But he was a long way from being able to convince a jury that. No one knew it better than he.

He ran over his notes about each guest. They were, for the most part, succinct and to the point.

"Lady Dorothy Alston," he said, "disturbed and reticent, but anxious to help, and believing in Mr. Smith's innocence. Lady Opie, French, subtle, but probably honest. Lady Gwendolen, grief-stricken. Certain fatal knife is her brother's. Unable to give any helpful information. Honest and sincere. These three have alibis.

"Sir George Opie, reticent. Keeping something back? Donald Flint, fiancé of Lady Gwendolen, positive he saw Lord Winston in garden during thunderstorm. Saw no one with him. A man of the world, but apparently well-meaning. Had never met dead man until that evening. Prince Pozolevsky, suave, polite, but elusive. Persistently refuses to admit anything unpleasant existed between himself and murdered man. Bruce Armstrong, enigmatic, resourceful, bellicose, a feeling that that stranger could clear up a lot.

He went slowly over the notes he had made at the inquest and before. There was a question mark after the name of Lady Opie. For an instant he couldn't recall why he had put it there, then suddenly remembered that he had made the note during her testimony. He, too, had noticed her reticence when she sat; the color had looked furtively at her husband. It had been a very little thing, hardly worth noticing; but Inspector Linscott had found that in his profession the very little things often led to the biggest coups. So he never slipped over anything, however insignificant.

He came to the notes about the fatal evening. Apparently Lady Gwendolen, Lady Opie, and the hostess had been the only ones in the music-room when Robin entered. The others all returned later and their movements were more or less satisfactorily accounted for. He wished someone had observed the order in which they returned and signs of disturbance, but that was too much to hope for. No one had noticed anything. Yet Inspector Linscott realized that if the murder had been committed by one of the guests it must have been done prior to their assembly in the music-room. Unless—but that seemed scarcely feasible. Sir George Opie went openly to hunt for the missing men—he had had time—scarcely time—for the doctor put the moment of death as earlier rather than later than the approximate moment he specified in his evidence. Well, then, before it might have been any of them—not much hope that way.

He had earlier examined the Manor inside and out, and he had ascertained that only Prince Pozolevsky and Lord Winston had been in the music-room. Unless—but that seemed scarcely feasible. Lucille Gates, of Pomona, California, is the winner of the American farm girl championship at the Los Angeles County Fair. She excelled at milking, churning, corn husking, raking and tractor driving. Although no prize for beauty was given, it was the opinion of many that this farmette would have garnered that one, too.

The Theater

"Half baked intelligences seem to think that a theatrical family is only a theatrical family and not a group of normal, healthy, human beings," says Ethel Barrymore the magnificent.

"You can take it from me that, of course, I don't know much about that is not true," she continues. "Any artist who gets anywhere on the stage must be a human being first and an artist second." All of this she said to DeLafayette Carter, I. N. S. correspondent, in Columbus recently.

It represents what the queen of the Barrymore family thinks of any possible parallel between her clan and "The Royal Family," the play which satirized the Barrymores. She was in Columbus for the world premiere of her new starring vehicle, "Scarlet Sister Mary," from the Pulitzer prize winning novel of the same name by Julia Peterkin.

The new play requires Miss Barrymore to don burnt cork and appear as a Gullah negress of easy virtue—the first time any member of the distinguished stage clan has resorted to blackface. "I think it is thrilling, immense, titanic; in fact, it is the best thing I have ever appeared in," she said. "I read the book late one night and thought it so marvelous that I called Lee Shubert the first thing the next morning and made arrangements to have it produced.

The critics in the capital panned the play, but she laughed them off. She said "fine" when asked what she thought of the performance of her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, who makes her stage debut in her mother's play.

Ethel still abhors talkies—refers to them as "canned entertainment which hurts the ears and insults the mind," but she thought "Moby Dick," starring her brother John, was fine. "But I haven't changed my mind in regard to talking pictures in general," she said. "They don't seem to be getting very far and I never go to them." Her daughter says: "I wanted to make my debut in blackface and I'm thrilled about 'Scarlet Sister Mary'.

Farm Notes

WHEAT BRINGS $1.67 PER BUSHEL

Wheat fed to pigs returned double its market price in a test recently finished at the Madison County Experiment Farm.

On September 1, H. W. Rogers, Superintendent of the farm, started a group of twenty-nine pigs, weighing 119 pounds, on the following mixture: ground wheat, 1,000 pounds; tankage, 100 pounds; choice clover hay, 100 pounds; and salt, 15 pounds. This mixture was fed in a self feeder to the pigs, which were confined in a dry lot. During the period of the test the average daily feed consumption per pig was 7.85 pounds of the mixture.

The pigs gained 2.16 pounds, daily, for a period of thirty-six days, and were then sold for $10 per hundred weight. With tankage at $4 per hundred pounds, ground clover at $1.50 per hundred pounds and salt at a cent per pound, the pigs returned $1.67 per bushel for the ground wheat which they ate. Light-weight pigs make less rapid gains, but make the gains from less feed, than do heavy pigs. Farmers can expect similar gains and similar feed requirements from wheat which they may desire to feed. Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Department of Animal Industry of the Ohio Experiment Station, strongly recommends that the wheat be coarsely ground, and that some protein concentrate, such as tankage be used. In addition to the tankage for dry lot or winter feeding a meal made from choice quality alfalfa, clover, or soybean hay may be advantageously used in the proportion used in this test.

DEATH BREAKS TIE

The Triumvirate is broken. One of its members has passed over the Borderland, from Time to Eternity. "The Triplets," concerning whom much has been said, read and heard for many years, are no more—as such. The sweetest and best of their number—Mrs. Emma Jones Robertson—has been taken from us and added to "the silent majority" OVER THERE. Eighty years of earthly acquaintanceship and friendship has terminated—for her, Ben F. Snell and myself survive, mourn and remember.

On August 3 last, our eightieth anniversary, it was my delightful privilege to join with the other two in a "circle of hands" at the bedside of Mrs. Robertson and spend a few solemn and never-to-be-forgotten moments in prayer. The beautiful picture there presented has remained in my memory ever since. Emma was my classmate in the group of '67 and Ben was my teammate in sports. Any wonder, then, that I loved them both? Only two of the class now remain, so far as I can learn. Up to now I had not thought of growing old, but Emma's death has brought the matter vividly to my attention, and I am now wondering if the survivors will be called home next. I say "HOME" because we three have chosen and looked upon it as such—the everlasting home of the people of God.

To the sadness of the news of Emma's death is added the regret that I was not apprised of the fact in time to have been present at the obsequies, which I surely would have done. It was the united hope of us all that we might all be spared to meet again next year; but "Let Thy will be done, O God."

Farm Notes

WHEAT BRINGS $1.67 PER BUSHEL

Wheat fed to pigs returned double its market price in a test recently finished at the Madison County Experiment Farm.
On September 1, H. W. Rogers, Superintendent of the farm, started a group of twenty-nine pigs, weighing 119 pounds, on the following mixture: ground wheat, 1,000 pounds; tankage, 100 pounds; ground choice clover hay, 100 pounds; and salt, 15 pounds. This mixture was fed in a self feeder to the pigs, which were confined in a dry lot. During the period of the test the average daily feed consumption per pig was 7.85 pounds of the mixture.
The pigs gained 216 pounds, daily, for a period of thirty-six days, and were then sold for $10 per hundred weight. With tankage at $4 per hundred pounds, ground clover at $1.50 per hundred pounds and salt at a cent per pound, the pigs returned $1.67 per bushel for the ground wheat which they ate.

Light-weight pigs make less rapid gains, but make the gains from less feed, than do heavy pigs. Farmers can expect similar gains and similar feed requirements from wheat which they may desire to feed. Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the Department of Animal Industry of the Ohio Experiment Station, strongly recommends that the wheat be coarsely ground, and that some protein concentrate, such as tankage be used. In addition to the tankage for dry lot or winter feeding a meal made from choice quality alfalfa, clover, or soy bean hay may be advantageously used in the proportion used in this test.

DEATH BREAKS TIE

Editor Gazette:

The Triumvirate is broken. One of its members has passed over the Borderland, from Time to Eternity. "The Triplets," concerning whom much has been said, read and heard for many years, are no more—as such. The sweetest and best of their number—Mrs. Emma Jones Robertson—has been taken from us and added to "the silent majority" OVER THERE. Eighty years of earthly acquaintanceship and friendship has terminated—for her. Ben F. Snell and myself survive, mourn and remember.

On August 3 last, our eightieth anniversary, it was my delightful privilege to join with the other two in a "circle of hands" at the bedside of Mrs. Robertson and spend a few solemn and never-to-be-forgotten moments in prayer. The beautiful picture there presented has remained in my memory ever since. Emma was my classmate in the group of '67 and Ben was my teammate in sports. Any wonder, then, that I loved them both? Only two of the class now remain, so far as I can learn. Up to now I had not thought of growing old, but Emma's death has brought the matter vividly to my attention, and I am now wondering which of the survivors will be called home next. I say "HOME" because we three have chosen and looked upon it as such—the everlasting home of the people of God.

To the sadness of the news of Emma's death is added the regret that I was not apprised of the fact in time to have been present at the obsequies, which I surely would have done. It was the united hope of us all that we might all be spared to meet again next year; but "Let Thy will be done, O God."

The hostelry was sold by Mrs. Bernardina Hornick, as administratrix of her husband's estate. For several years the hotel was operated by John G.
